CONCLAVE OF WORLD SOLONS OPENS OCT. 1

Thirty-seven of 63 Recognized Parliaments Will Be Represented Here

AMERICA HOST TO 490

Conference at Washington to Discuss International Law and Drug Traffic

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1925 by Post Pub. Co., Washington, D. C. — Thirty-seven parliaments of the world have accepted invitations to send delegates to the Inter-Parliamentary union meeting here Oct. 1, from which Secretary Clogg has just barred the Indian delegate, Saklatvala.

Out of the 63 recognized parliaments, 37 is regarded as an exceptionally large number. Representative Burton of Ohio, who has attended many of the meetings abroad of the inter-parliamentary union, was a caller at the White House Friday with A. D. C. Call of the American peace society.

"What real value have these meetings?" was asked of Representative Burton. "Well," he said, "they have a remarkable effect. In the first place it is a getting together of legislators, men who have the same problems. While it is true that executive branches of governments deal with international affairs, still parliaments are to be met on treaties and agreements. In many cases valuable work has been done which later has been copied universally. Some of the best arbitration work has been initiated in the inter-parliamentary union meetings."

HAS WIDE RANGE

The program for the session here includes discussion of a wide range of subjects from codification of international law to questions relating to international traffic in drugs and peace problems generally.

Asked if he thought the evulsion of the Indian delegate would be debated at the meeting of the Inter-Parliamentary union, Mr. Burton said he thought not. He pointed out that the agenda or program is arranged by the council of the Inter-Parliamentary union and this would not involve questions of admission or exclusion.

"Still, members of legislatures can make a point of order and talk about anything they please," suggested a reporter. And the American delegate himself of the ways of the American congress only smiled.

APPROVE EXPULSION

It seems that sentiment here among those familiar with proceeding meetings of the Inter-Parliamentary union favors excluding the Indian delegate as more or less of a nuisance. The argument advanced is that he could have befuddled the important questions to come before the meeting by making speeches preaching doctrines of communism.

"Here is a man," said a member of the committee arranging the meeting, "who is invited by the president of the United States to attend a meeting here, and the American government pays all expenses while the delegates are on American territory. It is proper for such a man to announce in advance that he intends to make speeches advocating the overthrow of his government?"

It appears that about 490 delegates will be here. There is no limit on the number a parliament can send. Congress appropriated $50,000 for entertainment. Approximately $5,000 was sent abroad to help needy members of other parliaments to pay their traveling expenses to and from America. The remainder of the sum is to be used in caring for the delegates while in the United States. An extensive program of entertainment is being arranged.

PROHIBITION HEAD BEGINS TO PRUNE OUT PRUNE AGENTS

Chicago. — E. C. Yellowley, new prohibition administrator of the Chicago district, has begun pruning his squad of enforcers as a preface to an organized drive on the bright spots of Chicago's night life.

Nine of the best known agents here have been dismissed "for the good of the service." Thirty-five more are slated for dismissal when he returns from Washington Saturday. The discharges will be followed by an influx in "under cover" operatives from the east for a thrust at Chicago's cafes and cabarets similar to that made by him against Broadway.

Included in the list was Al Johnson, head of the beer squad who arrested Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake in the beer shipping exploit that put them in jail where they since have been central figures in a scandal.

ZIMMERMANN TO CERTIFY BALLOT LATE SATURDAY

Vote Slips Will Bear Names of LaFollette, Dithmar, Bruce, Work, Baumann

Madison. — (P) — The list of candidates for the special senatorial election Sept. 29 will be certified to the county officials late Saturday. Secretary of State Zimmerman announced after Roy P. Wilcox withdrew his independent candidacy.

Mr. Wilcox's declaration after he had filed as an independent to place his name on the ballot in event of defeat in the special primary last Tuesday, was received just before noon. The secretary of state had set noon as a deadline for withdrawals, the official primary returns from all but six counties having been received.

The special election ticket will contain the names of Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., as the Republican nominee, John M. Work, socialist, and three independents are: George Baumann, Socialist-Labor; William George Bruce, Democrat; and Edward F. Dithmar, Republican.

Final pre-primary financial statements, filed with the secretary of state show that LaFollette's campaign organization received $7,031.82 in contributions and spent $4,991.40, while Bob Junior himself spent $539.45; Daniel Woodward, Republican, received $1,234.59 and spent $1,322.12. Work received $348.15 and spent $171.32. Statements of the others had not been filed Saturday. The Republican minute men of Milwaukee reported that they had raised $4,667.50 and spent $3,749.54.

KU KLUXERS AND YOUTHS FIGHT ON CITY SQUARE

North Brookfield, Mass. — (P) — Four serious clashes between members of the Ku Klux Klan and unorganized young men determined to break up or hamper Klan outdoor meetings have occurred in this state this summer.

The latest was a battle in the town square here Friday night in which hundreds participated.

Rocks and eggs were freely used as weapons. Chief of Police Steven Quill was overpowered by the crowd. His revolver, handcuffs and night stick were stolen.

Both factions blame the other for the disturbance which started when stones were hurled at 200 automobiles containing Klansmen as they passed through the square to the meeting field.

GRAB RED PROPAGANDA BY THE TON IN ROME

Rome. — (P) — The police Saturday discovered the Roman headquarters of the alleged nationwide communist plot to overthrow the Italian government.

The Rome police raided the alleged headquarters of the plotters, which were found to be in the same building as the secretariat of the communist party. They also raided 234 private homes, arrested 158 persons and seized tons of propaganda documents.

STATE MARKETING BODY IS DECLARED BANKRUPT

Milwaukee. — (P) — Five creditors of the State Marketing Association, Inc., threw the company into bankruptcy Friday. The assets of the company are $50,000, while merchandise liabilities are placed at $14,000 and capital liabilities are at $1,170,000.

EXPLORERS TO CROSS SAHARA WITH AUTOS

Bradley Tyrrel, Beloit College Trustee, in Quest of Civilization's Cradle

New York. — (P) — Search for the cradle from which some scientists believe civilization emanated 20,000 or 30,000 years ago, will be started Oct. 10 by a party of anthropologists who will attempt to cross the Sahar desert in automobiles.

The expedition will seek caves described by natives as covered with paintings and the walls hung with drawings. There is scientific belief that some highly cultured race might have inhabited northwestern Africa when the desert was a fertile plain.

Bradley Tyrrel, trustee of Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., sailed Friday night to join the expedition at Algiers. It is backed by Count De Prorok, excavator of Carthage, the college and the Frank Granger Logan Museum, at Beloit. The Royal Geographic society of London, the Carnegie Institute of technology and the University of Michigan are cooperating. Four or five automobiles will carry the party over 1,000 miles of desert wastes along the route taken by Citronne when he demonstrated the feasibility of motor traffic in the desert. Camel trains are carrying caches of gasoline and oil into the interior to await the expedition.

There will be five scientists and six other white men. As a precaution against unprovoked attack by the Tuareg tribe in the Hoggar mountains, a region never before explored by white men, skilled interpreters will be taken along.

Two scientific expeditions which previously approached the region have been wiped out. Mr. Tyrrel believes that the expedition will do for the interior of the Sahara what Roy Chapman Andrews has done for the Gobi desert in Mongolia.

GASOLINE STOVE EXPLODES, SETS FIRE TO HOUSE

Shiocton Woman Lights Stove and Goes to Bed—Awakened by Blast

Fire resulting from the explosion of a gasoline stove destroyed the home and barn of Clifford Lyons, in the village of Shiocton at about 4 o'clock Saturday morning. Mrs. Lyons, who was up most of the night because of sickness, had lighted the gasoline stove, left it burning and went to bed. She was awakened by the explosion, but the fire had gained such headway that only a few household articles were saved. Mr. Lyons was not at home at the time of the fire.

The fire spread to the barn and everything was burned except a Ford coupe and a few chickens. The loss is estimated at about $7,000, part of which is covered by insurance.

CURZON'S DAUGHTER RUNS AS SOCIALIST FOR COMMONS SEAT

London. — (P) — Announcement that Lady Cynthia Mosely, daughter of the late Marquis Curzon will undoubtedly stand as Socialist candidate for parliament from Stoke-On-Strant in the next election is providing a sensational bit for discussion at the tables of England's aristocracy.

Lord Curzon was credited with being inordinately proud of his blue blood and his creed was unalterable opposition to socialist views.

In 1920 Lady Cynthia married Oswald Mosley, Independent Socialist. Lady Cynthia is one of the most beautiful women in England.

She announced her conversion to socialism a year ago saying: "I am heart and soul with my husband in this matter."

"YELLOW KID" IS OUT AGAIN AND IN AGAIN

Weil, De Luxe Confidence Man, Talks Way to Freedom, but Is Rearrested

Chicago, Ill. — (P) — Joseph Weil, "Yellow Kid," Chicago deluxe confidence man, after the newspapers recorded that he had talked his way out of jail, Friday, was rearrested Saturday to be committed to the house of corrections for one year without another hearing.

Municipal Judge Herbert Immenhausen after sentencing the Kid and imposing a $1,000 fine, put him on probation but later withdrew the probation order and ordered Weil taken into custody again.

The fine and sentence was imposed on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses from a real estate man who, however, told the court that Weil had begun to make restitution and that he did not want him punished.

Weil also made an impassioned plea, saying "I am a greatly mistaken man," as he has done in court before and after the judge had heard of and suspended the penalty, newspaper stories credited Weil with having won another vocal victory.

It developed that the law was Weil's undoing. Judge Immenhausen explained that the law provides that one who has been imprisoned in the penitentiary cannot be granted probation. Weil once served a term, in Joliet penitentiary, the only time in his long career he had served a prison sentence. Later Saturday morning Weil was taken to the house of correction. The case Friday involved a check for $300.

Duluth, Minn. — (P) — A dream that impelled Clifford Sandretzky, 18, to search the foot of a cliff near the city tourist camp, led to the finding of the body of an unidentified man Saturday with a bullet in the temple.

Sandretzky said that in his dream "a peculiar thing" kept urging him to search the spot where the body was found.

Near the body was an abandoned automobile with empty gasoline tank and Minnesota license. No weapon was found near the body, which evidently has been there since Friday night. A key to a Superior, Wis. hotel was found in the man's pocket.

He had been an invalid since 1987, through the loss of use of his legs. Mr. Gilkey was born Sept. 6, 1847, at Houlton, Me. He came to Wisconsin in 1866 and located at Oconto, where he was employed as lumber cruiser. In 1870 he was employed by the Bray and Choate Lumber Co., lumbering on the Wolf river, with headquarters at Shawano.

CAL ASKS FOR BETTER TRUST IN DEBT BOARD

Press and People Can Serve Nation Best With Confidence, Coolidge Advises

Washington, D. C. — (P) — With the approaching of funding negotiation of the French debt to the United States President Coolidge believes the American press and people can best serve the end of an equitable settlement of all yet unfunded war debts by reposing confidence in the ability of the American debt commission to accomplish this.

Convinced that in each case the commission has accurate information on the capacity of the several debtor nations to pay, the president believes that body can be depended on both to safeguard the interests of the United States and to impose no unnecessary hardships on those negotiations in so doing.

Announcement by Senator Howell, of Nebraska, that he would insist, when congress meets in December, upon immediate conversion into negotiable bonds of all foreign obligations to the United States has brought response from debt commission officials that this already has been done.

Insisting, however, that this was not the case Senator Howell said he believed the principal reason such bonds had not been furnished was because it would have given the United States a commanding position in European fiscal affairs by permitting their market, should the occasion arise.

Floyd G. Blair, legal adviser to the debt commission asserted that the bonds in the British debt settlement were negotiable securities in every sense.

FIND CLEW TO RACINE MURDER

Fond du Lac Police Capture Two Stolen Cars, Burglar Kit, Stop Elopement

Fond du Lac. — (P) — A possible clew to a Racine murder, the recovery of two stolen automobiles, finding of a kit of burglar tools and the balking of an elopement resulted from a chain of circumstances which followed the recovery of a bull dog lost by Frank Burross, Milwaukee, two weeks ago.

The dog was seen in a car here and the driver, Henry Wagner, 35, arrested. It developed that Wagner had stolen the car from Mrs. Mary Taylor, of Milwaukee, and that he was captured as he was leaving this city for Madison to meet Mrs. Burross, who has disappeared from her home.

"Black Jack" Foreman, Wagner's companion, is being held without charge as the result of finding a second car bearing a Pennsylvania license and a Minneapolis visitor's permit. Foreman claims that the car was given him by Wagner. In the automobile was found a navy kit bearing the name of H. B. Leach of Milwaukee, and another kit, thought by police to be burglar tools. The car was stolen in Racine. When questioned by police Saturday morning the men said that the Racine automobile theft was not reported because the owner was involved in a murder case there and a report to the police might result in his arrest. Wagner is being taken to Milwaukee Saturday afternoon.

206 CHINESE WAIT DEPORTATION FROM AMERICAN SHORES

New York. — (P) — As a result of continued tong murders 206 Chinese were in the Tombs Saturday awaiting deportation.

Out of 1,100 nabbed in two raids this week in Chinatown, those at the Tombs have been unable to produce certificates of registration as required by law for the presence of Chinese in the country.

Detectives and agents of the department of justice combed Chinatown Friday night and gathered in all Chinese who could not produce credentials.

The latest raid followed more tong murders here and in Pittsburgh Friday notwithstanding a tong peace treaty. No evidence has come to light that those ordered deported were connected with murders.

CHURCH LEADER DEFENDS REPORT ON PROHIBITION

Federal Council Chairman Asks Wilson to Prove "Wet" Data Were Exaggerated

New York. — (P) — Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist church has been invited to present facts to back up his criticism of the prohibition report of the Federal Council of Churches.

Answering Dr. Wilson's denunciation of the report as something for which the press might have paid, Dr. John A. Marquis, chairman of the administration committee of the council said that the report was purely a research document prepared by skilled investigators.

The council has always been, and is now, committed to prohibition. Dr. Marquis said in a formal statement published Saturday. The committee believes, he says, that presentation of the facts will awaken friends of prohibition to the necessity of more rigid government enforcements.

"The department seeking only the facts," he added, "has no pride of position to maintain. If it has been mistaken in any of its statements of fact, it will welcome correction in the same spirit in which it has made the statement."

Dr. Marquis denied Dr. Wilson's assertion that the report was unauthoritative.

BOB JUNIOR REOPENS HIS SENATE CAMPAIGN

Stevens Point. — (P) — While other nominees for the United States senator were inactive, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., began his final drive in the campaign here Friday night. He also declared himself as opposed to the world court.

"I shall continue to fight for the rights of labor," he said.

CONTEST NOW NARROWED TO BOB, DITHMAR

Baraboo Man Is Only Anti-LaFollette Candidate Left in Field

DEADLINE HAS EXPIRED

Eau Claire Lawyer Issues Statement Giving Reasons for Withdrawal

Milwaukee. — (P) — Roy P. Wilcox, Eau Claire, defeated in the Republican primary for nomination as United States senator but eligible for the final election Sept. 29, by virtue of having registered as an independent Saturday withdrew from the race.

His withdrawal leaves Edward F. Dithmar, Baraboo, a Republican running under independent designation, the only anti-LaFollette Republican candidate in the field.

Wilcox's action coming as it does on the heels of his last statement issued shortly after the primary that he was in the race to a finish, furnished one of the surprises of the campaign.

BOUGHT PRESSURE

It was known that pressure was brought to bear on him during the anti-LaFollette Republican conferences Wednesday and Thursday, but his statement indicated that the pressure was not sufficient to cause his elimination from the contest.

Dithmar could not be reached Saturday for a statement on his position. As he is the only remaining Republican remaining in the race, it is independent, and in view of a well-defined rumor that "William" George Bruce does not intend making an active campaign, the field seems clear for Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., the Republican nominee, Dithmar, independent, John M. Work, Socialist, and George Baumann, Socialist-Labor.

WILCOX ISSUES THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT:

"To the voters of Wisconsin: On July 28, 1925 in connection with my candidacy I said my fight against radicalism, again begun, should continue through to the election in the event it was not successful in the primary. These statements were contained in a leaflet distributed to the delegates at the Oshkosh conference and on this basis my candidacy was unanimously endorsed. Edward F. Dithmar was chairman of the delegation from Sauk-co and participated in this unanimous endorsement.

"To carry out this plan it was necessary for me to file an independent candidacy as a Coolidge Republican."

"At the request of V. J. Campbell of the Republican state executive committee, I came to Milwaukee after the primary in an effort to clear the field so as to continue the fight.

WANTED TO STAY

"Arthur R. Barry and Edward F. Dithmar had filed as independent candidates for the United States senate. My position was that the pledge made to continue the fight was solemnly binding on me and upon Mr. Campbell's organization. To keep this faith, I stood firmly at all times for the carrying out of the pledge as made. Under the law it was impossible for any person who had not filed as a candidate to secure a place on the election ballot.

"Mr. Campbell has called together a sub-committee of his organization to whom his executive committee had delegated power to act. They conferred in turn with all the candidates. After the completion of these conference in which the position of the sub-committee at all times was that they would stand behind me if I am willing to continue the fight. My statement that I would do so was given out Saturday. If the state executive committee at all times has staunchly said they would back me to the end in my position of a fight to a finish. This was a fair expression of their position at all times as stated to me.

HAD SUPPORT

"My committee and myself began preparations to continue the campaign. General Otto Falk who has loyally stood by the cause from beginning to end sent a telegram to Irving L. Lenroot, United States senator declaring the national committee and the senatorial committee should give us every possible support. Mr. Butler should send a personal representative here at once with authority to act. General Falk also wired Mr. Butler, along the same line.

"General Falk received the following message from Senator Lenroot: 'Butler in Massachusetts and chairman of senatorial committee in Kansas. Am taking up with other, but have no hope of action in view of their attitude before primary. My judgment Wilcox continuing in field will only result in larger victory for opposition.'

ASK GOVERNMENT SURVEY TO GET FLOOD RELIEF

Schneider Principal Speaker at Meeting of Riparians to Elect Delegates to Washington

A public meeting of the Association for the Relief of High Water will be held at 1:30 Saturday, Sept. 26, in Shiocton high school, at which Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton will be the principal speaker.

The meeting is called for the purpose of electing delegates to go to Washington and argue the case of the riparian land owners living above Lake Poygan in favor of a government survey of their flood district. It is said that no effort will be made by these persons to continue their agitation for the cut-off canal from Shiocton to Duck Creek. They do insist, however, that a complete plan for relief be mapped out by the government engineers for their district.

A section of the agreement made by riparians and waterpower interests in May 1923, provided that the government would be asked to investigate all practicable methods of relief to riparians of the Fox and Wolf rivers above the Winnebago pool including the Shiocton plan and methods for improvement of navigation. After conducting three public hearings in Outagamie county on this matter, the war department engineers reported that the cut-off canal project was not worth the investment. Riparians have taken an appeal from this decision of the Milwaukee engineering office to the river and harbor board at Washington.

The lake level of Lake Winnebago was set by agreement to be 15 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam, that is to say, water is not allowed to go higher at any time. This settles the problem as far as the head of Lake Poygan, as the sluice gates do not affect the situation above the head. This 15-inch limit has been tried since 1923 and is working out satisfactorily to the cities of Oshkosh and Fond du Lac, and relief from floods has been obtained. The situation above Poygan lake to Shawano is said to be an entirely different matter and the riparian land owners, as well as the cities of New London and Shiocton, are said to be subjected to great damage from overflow each year. That is the reason why the association will ask the government to make a survey of the flooded district from the head of Lake Poygan to Shawano so that a plan of relief can be worked out.

Fond Du Lac Wants To Keep Tourists Off Main Streets

An innovation in the routing of tourist traffic through cities is expected to be instituted in Fond du Lac next year if present plans of the city commission meet with the approval of the state highway engineers.

Contrary to the aim of the majority of cities during the last few years to route tourist traffic through the business section, the Fond du Lac city commission is considering plans to divert this traffic from its main thoroughfare to side streets, relieving the present congested condition.

The new plan was outlined to the commission by the mayor at a recent meeting and members of the commission expressed themselves as favoring the proposal.

If Fond du Lac goes through with the proposal, the city will set a precedent in the matter of routing tourist traffic. Heretofore it has been the desire of cities to direct tourists through the principal streets and business section. Such a policy, it was believed, would not only better advertise the city but aid the merchants as well.

The heavy traffic on highways 15 and 55 through Fond du Lac has so completely congested the principal street, there that it prompted the action which the commission is considering. If the new plan proves successful and the business of merchants is not materially affected, it is probable that other cities will soon be following suit.

The central thought of the convention will be to crystallize matters of import. Miss Julia Lathrop, Chicago, will give the charge to the new voters and college leagues.

HALF MILLION RADIOS ON FARMS

Department of Agriculture Survey Shows Interest of Farmers in Air Concerts

More than 550,000 farms in the United States are now equipped with radio, the department of agriculture estimates, following a nation-wide survey through county agricultural agents. A similar survey last year showed 365,000 farms on which there were radio sets, and in 1923 only 145,000 farms.

This rapid increase in the use of radio by farmers is due, department officials declare, to the need for prompt market information in merchandising farm products, to the educational value of radio, and to its entertainment features. Many county agents reported that farmers have installed sets primarily to receive weather and market reports.

The department's estimate of 550,000 sets is based upon reports from 1058 county agents. Illinois leads the list in number of sets on farms, the estimate for that state being 46,900 sets; New York is next with 39,000 sets on farms; Iowa farmers have 39,000 sets; Missouri 37,000; Kansas 35,000; Nebraska 34,000; Ohio 27,000, and Minnesota 26,000. California has

SEES GOOD REASONS FOR CAMPS FOR BOY SCOUTS

P. O. Keleher, executive of Valley council, Boy Scouts of America, is more than ever an enthusiast for summer camps, after reading in recent scout bulletins of Milwaukee's success. Milwaukee had 175 boys at Indian Mound reservation. Measurements taken before and after camping showed that the group of 175 had increased chest expansion 75 inches, had gained 100 pounds in weight and had added 400 pounds in weight. This is attributed to the physical training given daily at the camp and to the balanced meals and regular hours.

LAKE POLLUTION AS BAD AS RIVER, ENGINEER SAYS

Survey Shows Water in Lake Winnebago Is No Clearer Than Fox River

No increase in the volume of water which is being released from the sluice gates at Neenah into the Fox river can be made, according to a letter received by Congressman George J. Schneider from Col. Gilbert Van B. Wilkes, district engineer of the major corps of engineering, Milwaukee.

At the same time, Orbison & Orbison, engineers for paper mills in this vicinity, declare that the chief cause of the pollution which is killing off many fish in the river, is the pollution of the water in its source, Lake Winnebago, rather than paper mill waste. According to Thomas W. Orbison, the pollution is from natural causes mostly, depending on temperature, amount of wind and the amount of vegetable growth let loose from the marshes along the tributaries of the lake.

Colonel Wilkes states in his letter that the flow of the Fox River at the present time and for some time past has been from 1,800 to 2,100 cubic feet per second and that it usually was nearer the higher level. He also pointed out that this amount was in excess of the flow into the lake, and that it would consequently be impossible to open the sluice gates any farther.

VALLEY PROBLEM

He held that the problem was more of a community problem and that if the conditions as alleged were true, another means of disposing of sewage should be adopted.

Another analysis of the Fox River between Kaukauna and Green Bay was made last Saturday, the result of which showed that the oxygen content in the water gradually increased from Kaukauna to Little Rapids, from where there again was a steady decrease to Green Bay.

It was announced by Arthur J. Hall, city chemist and superintendent of the municipal pumping station, and members of the state conservation commission, that the wholesale dying of fish in the river was due to a lack of oxygen.

MORE DIE THIS YEAR

Mr. Orbison, commenting upon the pollution of the Fox River, admits that there have been more dead fish in the river this summer than usual, but that current statements of the number found dead above the upper locks here are greatly exaggerated.

"Owing to the current, a large proportion of the fish floating down the river would find their way into the bay above the lock and, when noticed, there may have been accumulation for several days."

Multitudes of fish have been dying this summer in other waters than those between Neenah and Appleton. Mr. Orbison pointed out. He says that on Sept. 7 a person riding in a boat from just above Neenah dam to the lake passed a dead fish every 15 feet on one side of the boat. He adds that there probably was more than one column of fish floating down.

"Then there were as many, or more, floating in the Menasha channel," he declared. "We will not attempt to estimate the number, but know that fish have been dying by hundreds this summer in the northern end of Lake Winnebago. This we know, for we saw 50 dead fish gathered from a few hundred feet along the north shore in July. And every day, every summer, dead fish are washed on this shore of the lake and buried by the cottagers. There is no paper mill pollution in the water of Lake Winnebago, still the fish have been dying in these waters more this year than usual."

Mr. Orbison recalls only one year, 1908, in 35 years when the algae of Lake Winnebago were as bad as this year. The discharge of the river at this time was very low the last two

Coolidge Plan For Rail Merger To Cause Rumpus

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington — President Coolidge isn't going to have things all his own way when he launches his campaign in Congress next winter to force consolidation of the country's rail transportation system if the roads continue to stall off voluntary consolidation.

The lines which are losing money naturally regard the consolidation proposition with very kindly eyes, since it would insure them a share of the profitable ones' revenues. It's hardly reasonable to expect the latter to be so enthusiastic.

Of America's approximately 250,000 miles of railroads about 200,000 miles pay. The other 50,000 do not—or barely.

If the whole 250,000 miles were merged, it doesn't follow that their total earnings would be increased. On the contrary, part of President Coolidge's plan is to cut rates. On top of that, on the consolidation basis, whatever profits the combined roads did make would be spread over the entire 250,000 miles.

No longer would all the velvet go to 80 per cent of the lines and all the losses to 20 per cent. On the face of it, it doesn't look like a good bargain for the former.

The administration's view, however, is that consolidation would so greatly reduce overhead and so increase efficiency that nobody would lose by it; in fact, that everybody would gain—the combined railroads in an increased margin of profit and the public in lower freight and passenger rates.

If consolidation proves impossible, President Coolidge suggests, then the stronger and weaker roads must be considered in two classes.

That is to say, when rates are fixed they mustn't be fixed for both classes alike.

Rates which are quite high enough for the strong class might throw the weak class into bankruptcy; rates which the weak class can fairly claim in order to continue operation would give excessive profits to the strong class.

Leaders which can make money at reduced rates, the president thinks, ought to be required to reduce them; it may be necessary to permit the others to maintain higher figures.

But here another difficulty arises. Railroad patrons in parts of the country which are fed by prosperous lines would be pleased by rate reductions but the roads would insist they were suffering a rank injustice. That isn't so serious. Let 'em howl.

But how about those districts which are dependent on weaker lines? They'd have to pay higher rates than the other four-fifths of the United States, which assuredly would be a discrimination against them, and a very grave one—ruinous perhaps.

Discussion of the railroad consolidation question isn't going to be abstract and academic. It's going to be personal.

No classes of stocks and bonds are so widely scattered over the country as those of the rail transportation companies. They're held by millions of people.

These stock and security holders are going to feel their pocketbooks touched, one way or the other, and they're sure to have plenty to say about it. Then, too, there are the railroads' patrons. They're concerned likewise. Here's an issue that affects everybody.

SOUTH SUFFERS SEVERELY FROM DRY WEATHER

Crops in Southern States Practically Ruined by Continuous Drouth

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.
Washington—But for the fact that transportation facilities are amole in the United States, a considerable part of the south would be on the eve of as genuine a famine as ever gripped China, according to arrivals in Washington from the drought belt, described as extending roughly from the southern Virginia and North and South Carolina coasts through most of Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and into Texas.

That it has been a dry season in this region is no news, but if reliable eye witnesses stories are to be believed the situation's real seriousness is only just beginning to be revealed.

Not only have crops suffered heavily, but in some sections it is declared that good trees are dying, to such depth is the earth completely dried out.

Small lakes and numerous fairly large streams have disappeared so completely that their beds are deep in dust and buzzards are eating dead fish from them.

References are made to Texas ranchmen who are shooting their livestock, too emaciated to sell and doomed otherwise to a slower death from lack of food and water.

Many Georgia farmers are feeding ragweed to their swine and cutting small bushes for their other stock. Towns are mentioned which are bringing in their water supplies in tank cars.

That situation has one recompense. The boll weevil can't stand such dry weather much better than the cotton can. The boll weevil distinctly is a wet. Without moisture he dies.

That's what he's been doing lately, fat a prodigious rate. Indications are the next year he'll be scarce.

Later on he may increase and multiply again, but his absence even for a single season will be a blessing. It will mean, given an adequate rainfall, a good 1926 cotton crop, at any rate.

The southeastern states, with the exception of Florida, are suffering appreciably also from the rush to the latter state.

In Georgia particularly, just across the state line, the southward movement is spoken of as having assumed almost the proportions of a gold stampede.

The Georgians, with less faith in the Florida boom than the Floridians, have, expected to see the tide turn, and sweep back, in due course.

It shows no signs of doing so as yet, however, and in the meantime its effect on Georgia business is the reverse of satisfactory to residents there.

News for Home Share Holders of Milwaukee Electric and Associated Wisconsin Utilities

Wisconsin investors in Milwaukee
Electric and associated utilities are naturally interested in the growth of the holding company that serves and safeguards these utilities very much as the Federal Reserve banks serve and safeguard the individual banks of the country. North American Co. of 60 Broadway, New York City, through common stock control of their home utilities, now serves four great American cities and the populous regions surrounding them, namely, Milwaukee, Cleveland, St. Louis and Washington, D. C., and has a considerable stock interest in Detroit Edison Co., serving that great city. Plans are under way for North American Company's acquisition of the Western Power system, third largest electric utility in California.

North American Co. subsidiaries all operate under responsible home managements. North American Co. serves them and their customers and shareholders by assuring to them continuous efficient management employing the country's ablest engineers, and by enabling them to finance growth economically, North American Co., protecting its own common stock dividends from its subsidiaries in these ways, doubly assures regular payment of its subsidiaries' preferred share dividends, which must be paid in full before any dividend can be paid up on the common shares owned by the holding company. President Dame in a recent letter to North American Co. share holders said:

"Throughout the territories in which North American Co. subsidiaries are serving more than 668,000 customers with electricity, the demand for energy is steadily increasing. Rates are both low and profitable. Service is adequate and dependable. The huge modern power plants are making excellent efficiency records. At every point relations with the public and the regulatory bodies are cordial and friendly."

Our Wisconsin group holds its own with other groups in the North American Co. system in steady and solid growth, and, some of us believe, leads them all in developing and applying new efficiencies in production and distribution of electric services. Mr. Dame's letter was written prior to the recent offer by North American Co. for common stock control of the California properties. Including these and the Washington, D. C., properties controlled by North American Co., the system will serve close to 1,000,000 electric service customers, out of a total of 14,000,000 for the whole United States.

Thus far electric service companies have been kept busy providing energy for cities and towns. The next big development in sight is the extension of electric service to farms and dairies. Milwaukee Electric, Wisconsin Gas & Electric, Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat & Power, and Badger Public Service Co., of our Wisconsin group, have led the way in this new development in this state. All of the big Wisconsin companies are interested in it. At their recent convention in Green Bay tentative plans were discussed for the spending of $150,000,000 during the next ten years in carrying electric service to 100,000 Wisconsin farms.

Some of us believe the use of electricity for house heating, as a cleaner, more convenient and ultimately cheaper substitute for coal and oil heating, is just around the corner. Those who hold this opinion believe that within ten years nobody will think of building a home to be heated otherwise than with electricity, just as today nobody thinks of building a home to be lighted otherwise than with electricity. Certainly, no one today can fix a future limit to the growth and usefulness of this industry.

As of August 25, Milwaukee Electric had over 15,000 individual and joint owners of its preferred shares, including 748 buying on monthly payments; as of July 15, Wisconsin Gas & Electric had 3,336 preferred shareholders, including 111 buying on monthly payments; as of July 1, Milwaukee Northern had 1,000 preferred shareholders, including 177 buying on monthly payments; as of July 1, Wisconsin Electric Power had 3,629 preferred shareholders, including 948 buying on monthly payments. The total for the four companies exceeds 23,000, of whom all but a few hundreds are Wisconsin men and women—most of them resident in the areas served by our companies. Several thousand Wisconsin men and women own bonds of these companies. Many others own North American Co. shares. The business as a whole has fully 30,000 Wisconsin investors, and this number is steadily increasing.

Wisconsin Electric Power Co. 6½% cumulative shares now on sale at $100 each, for cash or on $5 monthly payments, will probably be sold out within the next forty to fifty days. These shares pay cash dividends every three months. There is no safer income investment in the public utility field. If you are interested, call or let us send a salesman. Mail orders filled promptly by registered letter.

AMENDING THE CONSTITUTION
Congressman John Phillip Hill, of Maryland, intends to introduce a bill in Congress next December providing for the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States which provides for the prohibition of the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes within the confines of the United States.

The Eighteenth amendment is perhaps the most widely known of the Nineteen, and there are few persons who have not very decided views upon the subject of prohibition generally. There have been numerous proposals for the modification of the Volstead act to permit the sale of light wines and beer, and it is not improbable that these attempts failed, more because of the rigidity of the Eighteenth amendment than because of a lack of support for them.

It is quite well recognized that no law that would permit the sale of liquor more than one half of one per cent alcohol, would be held constitutional so long as the Eighteenth amendment stands, but despite this fact there have been few moves for the repeal of the amendment. The reason for this is not far to seek. The United States is politically convinced of the principle of temperance. This fact is recognized by the most ardent advocates of change in the prohibition laws with the result that no one is willing to urge legislation that would result in anything like the conditions prior to the enactment of the Volstead law.

We would expect to find, when Mr. Hill's proposal is more fully presented, that it contains provision for the control of the sale of liquors. There are a great many who believe that the Eighteenth amendment would have been more properly confined to a general provision giving congress the right to regulate or prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors. Under such an amendment the prohibition of certain beverages might have been accomplished, and the specific legislation might have been changed from time to time to suit the needs of the nation.

The specific prohibition provided in the Eighteenth amendment leaves no room for any legislation other than such as we now have. In fact all that congress can do is to fix the penalties for violation of the law since the prohibition of all but non-intoxicating liquor—which we understand to be one half of one per cent or less—is accomplished by the constitution.

Mr. Hill may provoke considerable discussion by his proposal, but we predict that it will fail, unless he succeeds in separating the question of temperance from the question of prohibition.

CHINESE "DISASTER"
Nature's birth control has been at work again in China. The Yellow river has swept its banks in Shantung province, most densely inhabited part of that overpopulated nation, and removed at early accounts some 3,000 residents who had hitherto competed for a precarious living.

Shantung is a territory slightly smaller in area than the state of Michigan and containing more than ten times its inhabitants. They are the dirt-cheap labor for great foreign mine and factory concessions in the district, and they farm the valleys in small plots. Except where Christian mission work has made inroads, there is no "standard" of living whatever. The teeming millions reproduce, manage to live on a miraculous approximation of nothing, and on occasion are conveniently taken off by flood or famine when their tree-denuded valleys let in the water over soil that is the only hope of their survival.

Medical missionaries have broken somewhat the inroads of disease, which used once upon a time to be the greatest preservative of food supply China could boast. The work of missions in China has always helped to offer some more intelligent control than natural calamity over its superabundant transmission of almost valueless human life. Given standards of living, giving notions that health is preservable by cleanliness and medical skill and actually worth saving, given modern methods of agriculture, the demands of the average Chinaman and his family may increase—and reduce the hopelessly oversized population. At present too much has to be left to blundering instruments like the Yellow river.

TOM SAWYER RODGERS
Every one remembers how Tom Sawyer ducked out to a Mississippi island in the unforgettable Mark Twain story; how his people thought him dead, and the steamer came down and fired a cannon to raise the body, and Tow swam home in the night to creep into his aunt's house and listen to the mourning of the family over his rascal self.

A great work of humor, insight and imagination was that chapter; and the truth of its sly comments upon human nature is demonstrated on a grand scale in the account of Commander John Rodgers, who played Tom Sawyer in the midst of the Pacific with the assistance of his one-way radio on the now famous PN9 No. 1.

Bobbing upon that endless waste of gray waves Rodgers and his four Huck Finns were nevertheless in the oral center of the teeming civilization which had sent them out on their argosy. Its broadcast words crowded in upon them—and most of the words naturally concerned their own martyrdom. They were the heroes of the hour and by the turn of a tiny indicator they could hear practically everything that was being said about them.

They could hear their dead selves made into arguments for the Mitchell brand of separate air service. They could hear their superiors accused of inefficiency and almost of homicide, in sending them to their fate. They could hear praises sung of them and splendid eulogies read over them by people they had scarcely known, or known not at all. They heard the gradual announcements even on the part of their naval buddies of failing hope and abandonment of search. They could hear the very story of their sinking and drowning pictured for a sorrowing world.

"If what was said when you were 'dead' is favorable then it's a pleasure to return to life," smiles the brave commander. It would be too much of a pleasure for most of us and too rich a food for our vanity. That power besought by Bobby Burns to give us the gift of seeing ourselves as others see us—and it seems to have been found in radio—should never pick a time when we are believed to be dead. Unlike the cases of the irrepressible Tom and the self-contained Rodgers it might prove a little too much for the average man's hatband.

TODAY'S POEM
By HAL COCHRAN

WHAT'LL YA HAVE
You can look at this gent when your money is spent o'er a counter where sodas are served. He answers your wishes with fanciful dishes, so give him the credit deserved.
All day he keeps rushing, with seltzer taps gushing, with frappes and phosphates and such. He dresses up cream and he calls it "Love Dream." Ah, his is an artistic touch.
What queer names he thinks to give various drinks. What odd combinations he makes. Then you pay for the pains that he takes.
"Yea, this clever geezer's an appetite teaser. Concoctions he makes are like salvos. They soothe, you'll admit, so he's main'kin a hit, is the guy who says "What'll ya have?"

A porch swing may stay still and still go a long way toward landing a prospective husband.
Our girls are not so fast. Takes them 25 years to reach 20.
Things are getting so it takes good eyesight to tell a filling station from an ice cream parlor.
We can't understand what some autoists are driving at.
Time it gets cool enough to go to work it is time to go to bed.
The most popular summer resort is "It's too hot to work."
Time is money. But there is no use in saving either unless you know what to do with them.
Chairs last longer if tacks are placed upright in the seat.

SWEET OIL AND GINGER TEA
The most preposterous village gossip in the movies has nothing on old Auntie Parcel who used to strut her stuff in the town where I successfully eluded the police for several years. One day when I was fresh from my freshman year in medical school—fresh from such an adequate word for it—Dr. Ishan happened to be attending Chapple North, across the way from our manor, for some kind of rheumatism which Chapple contracted by getting his chest wet with a liquid for which our town was famous, "when Auntie Parcel came mincing along and stopped to make observations.
Dr. Ishan was the pioneer in our community in the field of abdominal surgery, but it wasn't appendicitis then; Auntie Parcel pronounced it pendeletitis, with emphasis on the delect. Auntie Parcel had a pair of corkscrews where banks were generally worn and she emphasized things by jiggling her corkscrews. Then, too, she beat the modern flapper to noticeable stockings by a good fifty years. On a rainy day when the streets were at all muddy Auntie Parcel's stockings could be noticed away up to the school house when she navigated the crossing down at the corner.
Having obtained competent and material evidence relating to Chapple's indisposition and given a prognosis in conformity with her estimation of Dr. Ishan, Auntie proceeded to expatiate on the pendeletitis scandal, until, at last, feeling upon the case of one unfortunate victim who had been "packed in ice" for quite a spell before Dr. Ishan could get to him, so that when "that butcher" tried to cut into the poor fellow he could make no impression because the poor fellows insides were frozen solid.
Auntie Parcel sincerely believed the yarn about the young man with frozen insides, but she was not exactly a dumbbell, for she knew some things which were so. She knew that lots of people succumbed to "inflammation of the bowels." Her difficulty was in correlating that fact with the very novel idea that the inflammation commonly started in the appendix.

I suspect Auntie Parcel's mind worked much as the mind of the short cut healer works in this jangle age. Such a mind does not question where the first mosquito, camel or Esquimo came from, but terminates any argument about the "germ theory" by asking "where the first fellow caught it," and fortunately for the get-trained-quick healer there are thousands of people who find such an argument logical enough.

The case of untutored people, who gravely accept the shortcut healer's suggestion that the appendix is an "oil can" for the intestine, and people who harbor nonsensical notions like that readily swallow enormous doses of plain or fancy oil in the childish hope that this will somehow cure appendicitis and enable them to escape an operation.
I'd be willing to swallow almost any kind of oil except castor oil if I believed it would enable me to escape having an operation, not because there is anything very dangerous or painful about an appendicitis operation but simply because it confines one so and interferes with one's meals. Once I thought the poor pink who had to undergo an operation for appendicitis was outa luck, but since I had "one myself I can't sympathize much with him. The "ordeai," I found, was not nearly so bad as it had been painted.
Any animal or vegetable oil in large doses diminishes the secretion of gastric juice and slows down gastric digestion. It may therefore temporarily relieve distress or pain from an excessive secretion of gastric juice, and this accounts for many instances of apparent relief. Gallstones, colic or appendicitis by huge doses of such oil.

To imagine that the oil can reach the seat of the trouble, in either gallstone disease or appendicitis, is absurd.
A girl aged seventeen writes that her physician says she has appendicitis—she has had two "attacks"—and should have the operation, but she has Ben Told that she can cure it by taking three table-spoonsful of pure olive oil daily, and she has great faith in Nature. She spells Nature with a capital N—as does it spelled in the "magazines" published to spread the advertising of the fake healers. She does not spell Ben Told with capitals—I suppose them. Let us pray, brethren, that this misguided girl will grow sick of her olive oil treatment before her next attack of appendicitis. I think I'd rather take castor oil on my pancakes than the chance of a third attack of appendicitis. One attack of that treacherous disease is quite enough for a coward like me.

Dear Rollo: Appleton could be made a beautiful city if each of us were to plant a tree or shrub—and then hire a big policeman to guard each tree and shrub to keep school children from destroying them.

That's a good idea. And maybe hire another policeman to make us trim the trees in summer. And then hire another policeman to make the city haul away the limbs when they get about them. And, lastly, hire another policeman to see to it that every one of these policemen does his duty.

Crab Appleton is going to get in bad with the school teachers for blaming things upon the school children. "Why school children?" they will ask. "Why not go a step farther and say Sunday school children, and blame the Sunday school for many of the morals of the day?"

A North Oneida-st. resident thinks fall is the ideal time of the year because there aren't any tulips for the children to steal then.

Yes, she may wear the fall styles—the kind in which the less she wears the warmer she looks—but tell one of these warm sisters your pay and you can use her for a kitchen refrigerator. Yes, sir, and if you happen to have a real big, fat check, well, your life is wrecked anyway.

LETTER FROM RUTH BURKE TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CONTINUED

I don't believe you are shocked, because I am telling you, Leslie, that now I think I am substantially that I was more or less in love with Walter for the last year of my married life with Harry.

I wonder if any person with a decent logical mind is ever shocked at the vagaries of humanity. Rather do not these vagaries call forth a great pity that human emotions should be almost always the sport of fate?

I don't think I ever was as passionately in love with Walter as I was with Harry. I know that Byron was right when he said in effect that in her first love a woman owes her lover, but ever after all she loves is love.

Walter is perfectly wonderful to me. He makes love so beautiful that I can't help loving him. I think he is the best man I have ever known, and yet you will remember that when you first knew him there was much gossip about him as a man about town.

I have never asked him about those years. Sufficient to me is the fact that I am all in all to him now.

You say, "Stay as you are—devoted to each other." I think that we will stay as we are, not because we are passionately in love, but because we both have the same tastes, we both have great tolerance, we both try to look at life from the same plane of vantage and we both have learned that no one is perfect.

One of the things that I think endears me to Walter is that I do not trouble him with constant curiosity. Perhaps I don't deserve any credit for that as I am not curious by nature. However, I think that when two people are much in each other's company, curiosity on the part of either as to what the other does when absent, is an impertinence that is almost unbearable.

One never has the feeling of absence, that absence that makes the heart grow fonder, if one must tell all of one's doings when out of the other's sight. I am very glad, my dear, that you extended that credit to Alice Hartley. Give her anything she wants. I happen to know Porter Breed very well and I know that pretty clothes are the best ammunition that Alice can use. He would have no use for a sweetheart or a wife that was not the best dressed woman at any place he would take her.

I also know Alice well enough to realize that the lack of pretty clothes would have the effect of making her most awkward and self-conscious. She has all her life been so exquisitely dressed that the realization that she was wearing something ugly or cheap, whether it was seen or unseen, would take away all of her poise which is her greatest charm.

WEDDINGS

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place Saturday morning at St. Mary church when Miss Eleanor Halls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Halls, 511 S. Locust-st., became the bride of Leo J. Mrs. Norman Schomisch, Oshkosh, a sister of the bride was matron of honor and Norman Schomisch, Oshkosh, was best man. John Corcoran, Kaukauna, and Edwin Hitchler, Appleton were ushers. Little Ruth Schomisch, the flower girl, carried a basket of baby breath and button chrysanthemums.

The vocal numbers were sung during the service. They were Gounod's "Ave Maria" sung by Mrs. Mabel Meyer, and "Oh Lord, I Am Not Worthy," sung by Lester Bailett. The organ accompaniment was played by Miss Birdie Farrell.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to about 40 friends and relatives at the Hotel Northern. Mr. and Mrs. Merkel will spend their wedding trip on a tour through northern Wisconsin. They will make their home at 130 Lathrop-st., Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Merkel are graduates of the Appleton high school in the class of 1917. For the last four years Mrs. Merkel has been girl scout director, and employment secretary of the Appleton Women's club. Girls Club Has Jubilee On Birthday

Appleton Girls club, which in reality was the beginning of the present Appleton Women's club, celebrated its tenth anniversary with a banquet and birthday party Friday evening at Hotel Northern. Nearly all of the members were present and messages of greeting received from those who were absent were read during the dinner.

The program opened with singing and brief talks then were given by several women, with Dr. Eliza Culbertson acting as toastmistress. Miss Inez Gurnee gave the history of the club, telling of its struggle to become established. She mentioned the loyalty of the members and the work of Miss Helen Schmidt as president, whom she said had much to do with its success.

Miss Mary Sands, who had journeyed from Hartland to be present, gave an interesting review of her association with the girls. The original "club mother," Mrs. James S. Reeve, then spoke. She talked on the girls' work and referred to the friendship on which the club was founded. Achieved purposes and benefits of the organization were related by Mrs. D. O. Kinsman, who opened her home for classes during the early days of the club when it had no suitable quarters. She recalled the citizenship classes while her husband, Dr. Kinsman, had conducted among the members.

Other speakers included Mrs. T. E. Orblson, who recalled the strong associations of the club's early days and the happy outcome, Mrs. S. C. Shan-non, who voiced the appreciation of Appleton Women's club for the cooperation given by the girls, and Miss Emma Flynn, who predicted a rosy future for this group of young women. Humorous incidents connected with the club were related by some of the girls during a period of reminiscence.

Tables were decorated with candles, friendship flowers from the "old-fashioned garden" and birthday cakes containing ten candles each. The same cards were laid out in baskets or confections with cleverly worded compliments. The first letters of each work were the initials of the guest's name. Corsage bouquets were found at each plate.

During the dinner Miss Inez Gurnee and Miss Helen Schmidt, who were leaders in the work of the club, were presented with American Beauty roses.

AFTER LEAVING THE HOSPITAL

Was Weak and Miserable. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Auger's Strength

Lowell, Massachusetts. — "I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books that you send around and I felt very good after I had taken a couple of bottles of it. I had been in the hospital and felt pretty well at first but I went down to nothing. I was weak and had to lie in bed almost all day. I had dizzy and faint spells, pains in my back and lower parts and was so nervous I could not bear my children around. I hope the Vegetable Compound helps other women as it did me. I do all my own work now and feel so well. I have told my friends about it and my sister and my aunt." — Mrs. OLIVE AUGER, 19 Howard Street, Lowell, Massachusetts.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 out of every 100 of the replies say "Yes," and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.

Adventures Of The Twins

Everything Has Its Use

"You cannot have my daughter," said the wicked queen to the prince, "unless you earn her. Get me a red turquoise at once."

"Then what happened?" asked the twins. "Did he get it?"

"Sure," answered Mr. O' Mi, the Story Teller Man. "Or rather his nigger servants got it for him. The man who could stretch himself as far as he liked, looked on the moon without moving and picked it out of the Moon Man's well."

"Now may I have her?" asked the prince, handing the red turquoise to the queen.

"Certainly not; I didn't mean it," said the queen. "You must eat those hundred fat oxen to be seen from your window, and drink a hundred kegs of wine—all before noon."

"Leave it to me," whispered the fat man from behind the curtain.

"Your Highness, they are all gone," announced a servant in less than five minutes.

"At this the good queen—I mean the bad queen—flew into a great rage. 'You shan't have her!' she cried. 'Not unless you can do more things. Take my daughter home and see that no one steals her before midnight!'

"That's easy," whispered the sharp-cared man.

"That's easy," they all whispered behind their curtain, loudly enough for the prince to hear.

"It will be harder than you suppose," said the good queen—I mean the bad queen—as the prince led the princess off by the hand.

"When the princess was seated in the prince's castle, the long man stretched himself around it three times, the sharp-eared man listened at the gate with his ear to the ground, and the sharp-eyed man watched from end to end of everything and around all corners, and the fat man sat nearby with a bludgeon.

"What can I do?" asked the man who couldn't get warm.

"Shiver and shake," said the prince. "You are the one person for whom I have no use."

"Oh, I'll come in handy some time," said the other.

"Did the princess get stolen?" asked Nancy, who couldn't wait to hear the rest.

"Almost, but not quite," went on Mr. O' Mi. "The good—I mean the bad queen, was sort of a witch and cast a spell over everybody and they all fell asleep. But the stretchy man shrunk so when he slept that his head hit a post and woke him up and he gave the alarm."

WOMEN WORK ON PLANS FOR CHURCH PARTY

Plans for the diamond jubilee of First Congregational church, Oct. 4 to 11, and for the state Congregational conference to be held here Oct. 5, 6, 7 and 8 were the principal topics for discussion at a meeting of the Congregational Women's association Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Wettengel, 915 E. Alton-st. Mrs. Wettengel is president of the association.

Work of the association for the coming year was outlined. The meeting was the first since last spring.

MISSION CLUB CHANGES TIME FOR MEETING

The Missionary society of the Congregational church will hold its first meeting of the season at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon instead of Tuesday as was originally announced. This will be a "frank offering" meeting, commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the building of Kobe college, the first Christian school for girls in western Japan.

Miss Eleanor Burnett, one of the leaders of Kobe college will be present at the meeting and will give a talk on the college. Everyone is invited to be present.

"The princess is mine!" cried the prince.

"Then take her," shouted the bad queen. But turning to her daughter she said, "I'd hate to be saved by a lot of servants."

"That's right," said the princess who wasn't very wide awake yet. "It does hurt my pride." Then she said to the prince, "I won't marry you unless you throw a servant on the fire and leave him there until it has burned out."

"There! Didn't I tell you?" cried the shivering, shaking man, stepping up to the prince. "I know I had a use."

"So they built a fire," said the Story Teller Man, "and the old servant stepped right into it and even when the fire went out, there he stood shivering and shaking."

"Did the prince get the princess then?" asked Nick.

"He did," said Mr. O' Mi. "But do you know she turned out exactly like her mother and the prince discharged all five of the servants who had helped him to get her."

BAD WEATHER DOESN'T STOP STYLE OPENING

Merchants Go Ahead With Plans for Formal Start of Fall Merchandise Season

Kaukauna—Kaukauna merchants were determined to go ahead with the opening of the fall merchandise season in spite of the threatening weather Saturday morning. Merchants were decorating their windows, special lighting systems were being arranged and many merchants were at work decorating the exterior of their buildings.

The band was to start playing at 10 o'clock and many people were waiting for that as a signal to hurry down town. About 55 merchants offered merchandise prizes in the contests.

The new model car parade will begin at 6:30 and parade practically every street on the north and south sides. The band will furnish music until 11 o'clock.

Many stores are offering special prizes and free souvenirs to visitors on this big day.

This first fall opening is being sponsored by the Business Men's association of Kaukauna, and if successful probably will be made an annual event.

NIGHT CLASSES OPEN IN OCTOBER

No Large Increase in Enrollment Is Anticipated in Evening School

Kaukauna—Registration for evening classes at the Vocational school will be conducted Thursday and Friday, Oct. 1 and 2, according to A. T. Hudson, director. Classes will be resumed Monday, Oct. 5.

No appreciable increase in enrollment in evening classes is anticipated this year, although the number is expected to at least equal that of 1924 when exactly 227 pupils took night work. That these classes are more popular with women is indicated by the fact that 192 students out of the total enrollment were women.

Courses offered to women include sewing, cooking, art, reading, bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting. Machine shop, cabinet making, blue printing, reading, bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting are offered men.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Members of De Molay organization will entertain at an informal dance at the Elks hall at 9 o'clock Saturday evening. Dancing will last from 9 to 11 o'clock. Music will be furnished by a six piece orchestra.

Invitations for the affair were issued this week.

Kaukauna—Constitution Day was observed at the high school Thursday with special exercises during the assembly period from 10 to 10:30 a. m. Superintendent J. F. Talks on the constitution also were given by Llyah Allwood and Robert Radsch and the period was closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner. Importance of the constitution was likewise stressed in English and American History classes, each student in the two classes being required to give a short oral thesis on this subject.

H. S. STUDENTS WILL TRY FOR 3 LOCAL TROPHIES

Spirit and Student Honor Cups and Declamation Medal Are Before Contenders

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Students of the local high school will take part in competition for three trophies this year. They are two loving cups, one of which is entering upon its second year but is still a new feature, and a new declamation medal.

The first of the cups, the famous "spirit cup," which was presented by the graduating class of 1924 to take the place of the former one of the same title, was won for the first time by the present senior class last year. It is awarded at the close of each school year to the class which has ranked highest in ten branches of scholastic activity, the winning class receiving the privilege of having its numerals engraved upon the face of the cup.

The second cup makes its first appearance this year, having been along with the declamation medal, the memor of the class of 1925, which graduated in the spring. It is known as the student honor cup, and is to be awarded at the end of each year to the student who has the highest scholastic average providing the average is not below 90 per cent. It will be awarded for the first time at the end of the present school year, and it is thought that it will tend to create a big boost in the already high scholastic standing of the school.

The declamation medal takes the place of one which was lost some years ago. It is to be awarded to the girl winning first place in the school declamatory contests each year. As with the medal which is awarded to the boys for oratory, it becomes permanent property of any student who shall win it for three years in succession.

The afternoon session will be given over to a meeting of consuls, clerks and deputies and will be held in Woodman hall. The evening meeting will be for all members and will be held in Dames Home hall. Mr. Whelan will address the evening session.

The distance is four and a half miles and the mail must be carried thirteen times a week.

SELLS PROPERTY
The William Auer property on Badger-st has been sold to Maurice Behnke, proprietor of the City meat market on S. Main-st. G. S. Reimer of Neenah, who recently purchased the property is to move back to that city. Mr. Behnke expects to sell his Jefferson-st residence.

A new buyer in the potato shipping business this fall is the Central Wisconsin Seed company of this city. The company has leased the warehouse on Elm-st formerly used by O. N. Chertensen. Henry Smith is in charge of the warehouse and the new firm is now doing business.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week a student health clinic will be held at the high school with Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association cooperating with the local chest clinic. The work will be under the supervision of Miss Hickman and Miss Barton and will be partly financed by the Girls Athletic association.

DECLINES TO TEACH
Miss Maurine Conkling, who was engaged to teach physical education this year in the public schools, has changed her plans and will not be here. She is succeeded on the faculty by Miss Katharine Graham of Decatur, Ill.

Three New London youths, Clarence Rousseau, Melvin Burton and Richard Bodah were bound over to circuit court for Waupaca-co. after a hearing at New London on charges of stealing gasoline from the Farmers Cooperative Oil company warehouse in New London.

Attorney L. D. Smith of this city will appear before the supreme court in behalf of Arthur LaValley of Clintonville, this month, convicted upon a statutory charge at the last term of circuit court for Waupaca-co. It is understood the attorney will base his appeal on a writ of error.

Don and Marvin "Falgatter" are spending a short vacation at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Falgatter "State-st." They will return to Yellow Springs, Ohio, in another week to resume their studies.

Philip Truesdell and Thomas Browne will leave Sunday for Washington, D. C. Both young men will continue their courses at the University of Maryland.

Dr. A. M. Christofferson and F. R. Fisher spent the last week touring northern Wisconsin.

Dr. H. I. Lewis and a number of friends from Waukesha and Milwaukee are spending ten days in northern Minnesota.

W. C. Edwards made a business trip to Ripon Thursday where he photographed buildings of Ripon college. The Oshkosh bus line will run a special schedule from Waupaca during the Oshkosh fair next week.

Many Waupaca business men were in attendance at the Waupaca-co fair at Weyauwega Thursday.

their engagement at the Appleton theatre. No doctor could be more expert in feeling the pulse of a patient than Mr. Winninger has been in the past fifteen years in feeling that of the theatre going public as regards their likes and dislikes in the matter of plays and this season his judgment tells him, "comedy, comedy is what they want, John, and lots of it." Consequently every play in the repertoire has been selected with that in mind.

That this judgment was correct has been proven by the turn away business in every city played. The right kind of plays have been one reason for this but Mr. Winninger has also provided an excellent all around company to put them over.

The first delicate morsel served up to satisfy the itching emotions of Appleton audiences Sunday matinee and two performances Sunday night will be that tasty dish, "The Best People," concocted by the king of comedy chefs, Avery Hopwood, who was also responsible for those two great laughing shows, "Fair And Warmer" and "Why Men Leave Home."

A distinct novelty has been secured for the audience by the acts this season in Bertina and Raymond, a couple of musical comedy stars from Australia. Their singing and dancing would be credit to any big time vaudeville circuit.

There will be no reserved seats for the bargain matinee Sunday or the two shows in the evening, they are now selling however for the balance of the week.

"FIGHTING THE FLAMES"
FILLED WITH THRILLS
For thrills and action in motion pictures it will be hard to beat "Fighting the Flames" which will be shown at the New Bijou theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It is, as its name implies, a fire picture, only instead of having the fire as the big kick in the last reel this picture has several fires.

Engines dash down the street. At the last fire there is a most difficult rescue scene accomplished in which the hero has to lift the girl up to a roof when there is no other place to go. The rescue is accomplished on a scaling ladder. Anyone who has ever tried to climb anywhere on these portable broomsticks with rungs on the sides knows what a difficult task this must be.

William Haines plays the lead and a very active part in it. Dorothy Devore is the heroine and a good look at her makes one sure that the rescue is well worth the trouble. Haines and Miss Devore have played together before in a picture by the same producers. They were together in the "Midnight Express."

COLORFUL AND NOVEL FILM IS BELL'S "PRETTY LADIES"
One of the most colorful and novel pictures of the year is Monta Bell's "Pretty Ladies," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production showing at the Elite theatre today and Sunday.

The story, crumpled with human interest, is based on stage life, that more or less mysterious phase of human existence so glamorous and fascinating to those in other walks of life.

A cast of stage and screen stars has been assembled for this photoplay, such as has rarely been gathered for a single production.

Zasu Pitts is seen in the featured role and Tom Moore is the leading man. Lilyan Tashman is the blonde "heavy" and Bernard Randall the theatrical producer.

As though these celebrities were not enough, the services of Norma Shearer and Conrad Nagel, stars in their own rights, were also obtained to play small but unique roles. In addition there are such well-known players as: George K. Arthur, Paul Ellis, Helma D'Alsy, Roy D'Arcy, Lucille Le Sueur, Gwendolyn Lee and Dorothy Seastrom.

BIG CAST SUPPORTS CORINNE GRIFFITH
A cast not great in numbers, but excellent in names. That is the term that might be exercised when presenting Corinne Griffith in "The Marriage Whirl," her next First National release.

To begin with, the fair Corinne was not content with one leading man. She has two—Kenneth Harlan and Harrison Ford. Nina Naldi will also be seen in an important role. Then there are E. J. Ratcliffe, Charles Lane and Edgar Norton—all popular with motion picture patrons.

The picture is scheduled for showing at the Elite theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

WANT TO CONVERT OPEN CARS INTO CLOSED MODELS

Auto Trimmer Finds More and More People Seeking Enclosed Bodies

Automobiles with closed tops are replacing open ones, even in second hand models, avers William C. Stewert, head of the Stewart Auto Trimming Shop, 514 N. Appleton-st. and Mr. Stewart, who has repaired and trimmed hundreds of auto tops for years, should be in a position to know.

He declares that the majority of people who bring cars with worn out tops to his shop ask for closed tops instead of repairing of the old open ones. The California top and various types of glass enclosures reign variously.

Why? you may ask. For several reasons, he will answer. With automobiles almost as numerous as people, it is not pleasant to travel many miles on a dusty road in an open car.
Neither is it agreeable to drive an open car in bad weather or during the late fall and early spring when the air has a biting nip that goes right through you.

Most people, when they buy their second car, choose a closed model, he points out. Those who drove a closed car before would hardly think of changing to an open one. So it is with people who want their tops repaired but do not yet wish to dispose of their machine. They prefer to pay a little more and drive away with as much comfort as the big sedan which rushes by them as they back away from the curb.

And while on the subject of auto tops, how much leather do you think is contained in them. Little or none, according to Mr. Stewart. The average top is made out of rubber into which is woven a cloth to give strength. There are various qualities of rubber of course, depending upon the price of the article, and some of the cheaper tops are little better than paper.

More people are also having their seats covered, he states. No particular design has ruled favorite thus far, practically everybody choosing a different pattern. There are only two things in common which people ask for in a seat cover. They want matterial dark so as not to sell easily and they want it durable.

Mr. Stewart's business is seasonable. Mid-winter is his lushest period and spring is his busiest. Perhaps one-half of all the jobs he gets during the year is in spring. This is the time when people prefer to have their cars renovated and made as attractive as possible. If they find in the fall that their machine may need renovating they undoubtedly wait until spring.

Mr. Stewart is an old hand at the business, having been engaged in it for about 30 years. This business, just like any other, cannot be learned in a short time, he says. Neither can one learn it all in a prescribed time. Something new is learned practically every day.

SCOT SOCIALISTS PUT JAZZ ON BLACK LIST

Glasgow, (AP)—Scottish trade unions and Socialist organizations have started a movement to ban jazz dancing at their social functions on the ground that they are not only im-modest but result in altogether too much wasted energy as well. Farm workers also are being urged in some circles to retain the "good, old-fashioned dances which the city folks have forgotten all about."

The editor of the Scottish Farm Servant, writing on the subject of dances, hopes that the farm workers will give the "modern acrobatic iniquities the go-by, and leave the fancy jazz dances for the high fliers in the Metropolitan districts." He commends one branch social recently as a great success because the organizers gave the guests a lot of old dances, and he invites other branches to revive the dances of other years before they pass from memory entirely.

Babson Draws Lessons From Stinnes' Failure

Babson Park, Mass.—In view of the news items which have been in the newspapers recently regarding the big Stinnes failure in Germany Roger W. Babson has been asked regarding the facts of the same and the reasons therefor. Mr. Babson's complete statement is as follows:

"Hugo Stinnes, during the past twenty years, has been Germany's greatest captain of industry. Even before the war he was the outstanding figure in German industrial life, and, unlike most Germans, he was even bigger and richer after the war than before. The war increased his wealth because his holdings were in stocks or equities rather than in bonds or mortgages. When the inflation period came, he was able to pay up the indebtedness of his companies with depreciated currency which made his equities very valuable. Inflation hurts the conservative investor who buys bonds and helps the speculative who buys stocks.

If the Stinnes fortune had been in high grade bonds and mortgages, it would have been wiped out directly following the war; but being only in stocks and equities it greatly increased. Hence the first thing to remember is that Stinnes owned stocks rather than bonds.

"The Stinnes companies ranged from newspapers to hotels. He personally owned what is considered by many as Germany's leading newspaper, Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung.
His industrial developments started with coal properties, the exploitation of which was the basis of the Stinnes fortune. To these coal properties he added iron mines, electrical concerns, petroleum companies, pulp and paper mills, cellulose factories, steamship lines, hotels, insurance companies, motor car works, great banks, and various other concerns. If one can picture the holdings of Henry Ford,
John D. Rockefeller, and the Du Ponts all combined together it would give a fair idea of what Stinnes owned. The difference, however, is that Ford's companies have no indebtedness; the DuPont companies have very little indebtedness; while Rockefeller puts most of his money into the bonds of his companies and thus controls their indebtedness as well as their equities. Stinnes, on the other hand, put all his money into equities and let the public hold the indebtedness which he permitted to be very large.

"STINNES' THREE MISTAKES
"Stinnes made three primary mistakes as follows:
"1. He tried to be too big. He forgot the old German proverb, 'Trees never grow to the skies.' He also failed to remember that the higher up in the tree a bird builds its nest, the wilder it is and the easier to find it.
The real reason why Stinnes collapsed is the same reason why there are no mastodons living in the world today.
These great animals, whose skeletons we see in museums, although the greatest beasts that ever lived, are now extinct. The fact is that they became so big that they could not get out of their own way. Off hand one would say that there would be more lions and tigers on the earth today, than cows and sheep, because lions and tigers are so much more powerful. But this very fact interested everyone in their destruction.
The production of cows and sheep has been stimulated and encouraged.
Truly Jesus, that great economist of 2000 years ago, made a very potent forecast when he stated that the meek should inherit the earth.

"2. Stinnes was careless about letting his companies get into debt. It is true that very few can take the position of Ford and say that there shall be no debt. All captains of industry cannot follow Rockefeller in owning or controlling the indebtedness of their companies. It, however, is a great mistake to borrow more than one can take care of. This is especially important for business men to remember at this time when money is so easy and banks are encouraging their good customers to borrow. Debt has been the downfall of about 90 per cent of our business concerns. It is much better to do a small business with no indebtedness than to borrow a lot of money for the sake of doing a big business. Irrespective of inflation or deflation, the Stinnes concerns would ultimately have collapsed simply because he was such a free borrower and sold bonds and notes as fast as the banks would take them.

"3. Stinnes forgot it is impossible to get something for nothing. He was correct in figuring that inflation was to his advantage, but he foolishly forgot that deflation always follows inflation. He failed to realize that his fortune must decrease during a period of deflation as rapidly as it increased during the period of inflation. Stinnes ignored the fundamental law of action and reaction upon which the Babsonchart is based.
When a stock soars, due to increased value or any other legitimate reason, it may continue to sell at a high figure. But when it goes up in price simply on account of manipulation or inflation, then it surely must fall again to its true level.

"Stinnes held on too long. Instead of getting out when he had his huge profits, he continued to remain in and saw his wealth melt away. Moreover, as the indebtedness was of slight account during the period of inflation, while the currency was depreciated, this same indebtedness became of great concern as the deflation set in and the currency was put on a stable basis. Hence while Stinnes had his day and could dictate to the bankers during the inflation period, the bankers had their day and could dictate to him during the period of deflation. In this there is a good lesson for every American business man and investor to learn and remember.

"STINNES' COLLAPSE
"Hugo Stinnes died in April 1924.
Whether his death caused the collapse or the collapse caused his death, is a good deal like arguing which came first the hen or the egg. Whichever the case, the bubble burst about a year ago and instead of his sons being the richest men in Germany, they have found themselves almost the poorest. Ordinarily there would be a great deal of sympathy for the Stinnes boys. But after the father's death they were as stubborn as was the old man. They not only cast aside all economic teaching, but they continued to pursue the inflationary policies of their father. For a while they bought more companies and issued more notes. Of course they feel now that the banks wiped them out, which is always the alibi of a failed concern. My experience, however, is that banks are very patient and are very loath to wipe business out, doing it only as a last resort. If Hugo Stinnes, Jr., had been willing to subscribe to and follow some good Economic Service he might have saved the family fortune; but laughing at economic law and believing the Stinnes family was greater than any economic law, he failed.

"Today the various Stinnes companies are in the hands of the banks and are gradually being liquidated.
The oil and petroleum companies, at the mouth of the Elbe have been sold to the State of Hamburg, the forests in Pomerania have, or are about to be sold to Prussia. The Stinnes hotels, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung newspaper, the pride of his heart, and various other properties are now being disposed of. If the Stinnes family succeeds in retaining their original coal holdings, with possibly certain iron properties, it is the best they can expect to do.

"AMERICANS SHOULD TAKE NOTICE
"The Stinnes failure has no direct effect on American business or the New York Stock Market. Hugo Stinnes was distinctly a German. He financed his properties in Germany, he built them in Germany, and operated in Germany. Very little American money is involved in the Stinnes failures, although it is possible that some American money may now buy certain of the Stinnes properties.
Hence, from a financial point of view,
there is no reason why I should tell his story to my American friends.
Great lessons, however, are involved in the Stinnes failure which should be heeded by Americans as well as Germans. These lessons are as follows:

"Stinnes made three mistakes.
First, he got a big head; second, he borrowed too much money; and third,
he refused to recognize economic law.
Stinnes thought that times had changed and economic laws, that had applied in the past, do not apply today. I therefore urge American manufacturers, business men, and investors to avoid these three pitfalls into which Stinnes fell. First, let us be content with a reasonable business and take for our motto 'live and let live'; second, let us keep out of debt as far as we possibly can; and third, let us remember that usually things that go up, likewise come down. We must especially remember and put into practice these three principles now that business is on the up-grade, for it now registers by the Babsonchart 11 per cent above normal as compared with 1 per cent below normal at this time last year." (Copyright, 1925, Publishers Financial Bureau.)

but pretty poor when it comes to shooting seals. The minister for fish-

TYPEWRITERS IN GREATER DEMAND WITH EVERY YEAR

Nelson Typewriter Exchange Has Noted Big Increase in Demand for Machine

More people are using typewriters now than at any time in the history of the typewriter business, according to A. M. Nelson and G. L. Sues, managers of Nelson's Typewriter Sales and Service Co., 201-202 E. College-ave.

Increase in sales of typewriters is due to general expansion of business enterprises since the war and a more universal adoption of the typewriter in the home, they explain. More people are turning to the typewriter in writing their correspondence and they predict that the time will come when the typewriter friendly letter will be come common than the pen written letter.

Although this business is not as seasonable as many, the most sales are made during the months of October and November. The month of December is perhaps the duller time of the year. They explain their increase in business during October and the month following to the desire of business and manufacturing concerns to fully equip their offices for the year beginning with the fall business. In summer when several of the office force are absent on their vacations every week, extra typewriters are available, but when the entire force is back on duty in the fall, old machines are disposed of and all office equipment is overhauled.

December is the duller time of the year because the majority of people are saving their money for Christmas shopping. Practically no money is spent either for new machines or for repairing during that month. The few machines that are purchased in December are purchased by those who need typewriters for immediate use.
Few are ever bought for Christmas presents.

Rental of typewriters likewise increases in the fall, although this condition is perhaps true only locally because of the presence of the college.
Repair business reaches the peak during summer and early fall as this is the time of the year when offices prepare their equipment for the year.

"Although the average life of typewriter is much longer than three years most large offices trade in their machines at the end of this time for new ones. Some even trade in theirs at the end of two years, while smaller concerns wait four and sometimes five years.

An innovation in the typewriter business is the electric machine; introduced about a year ago by the Woodstock factory, which is the manufactured by Nelson's Typewriter Sales and Service Co. Models of the electric machine were received at the local firm about six months ago.

With the electric machine, the keys need only be touched instead of depressed about an inch and a half and the electricity does the rest. Not only can the typist increase his or her speed with this new model about 50 per cent, but the figures impressed on the paper are all the same shade, and the work of operating the machine is much easier.

Besides the Woodstock typewriter,
Nelson's Typewriter Sales and Service Co. also handles the Add-Index adding machine which features every standard and is yet portable. The firm has been located in the city about a year. Mr. Nelson formed a partnership with Mr. Sues last May 1.

GERMANY COULD USE NINE MILLION BEDS

Berlin, (AP)—Sofia Goetze, of the German Welfare Institute, believes that for hygienic, moral and social reasons every man, woman and child should have his own bed. She estimates that in Germany 9,000,000 beds are needed to bring about this condition.

SUGGEST CODE OF TRAFFIC SIGNALS FOR U. S. USAGE

Chief Prim Attends Meeting at Which Recommendations Are Formulated

Adoption by Wisconsin, and later by the nation, of standard warning signs for highways, proposed at a national conference in Washington last month, was recommended to the state highway commission at a conference at Madison Friday at which George T. Fritz, chief of the Appleton police department, attended. The recommendation was made by the special committee of state authorities and other interested persons appointed recently at a state-wide meeting to consider proposed uniformity of road marking and signs. The sign suggested at the Washington conference, and recommended by the committee Friday to the highway commission, consists of black letters on a yellow background. All warning signs along highways, arterial signs and street markers could be of this nature, according to the recommendation of the committee. It was also recommended that all automatic electric signs, which could also be painted yellow, be placed on the near side of street intersections and that the signs be from seven to ten and one-half feet high from the grade to the middle of the sign and two feet back of the building line. A report of the recommendations made Friday by the committee will be sent to city and county officials throughout the state and any changes which might be suggested by them will be welcomed by the state highway commission. The special committee met in executive session with J. T. Donaghy, state highway engineer; W. M. Torkson, secretary of the highway commission; Nicholas Isabella, maintenance engineer and C. N. Maurer, traffic engineer. Other recommendations are expected to be announced soon.

COUNCIL AGREES TO ASK FOR STATE SCHOOL SURVEY

Nine Questions Concerning Educational Conditions
Submitted to State Board

Neenah—"Is a Junior High school advisable for Neenah, or would it be better to add to the ward buildings, where necessary and to the present high school building?" This was one of the nine questions submitted to the state surveying committee of the state board of education by Neenah school board preparatory to the survey of Neenah school buildings. The communication to John Callahan, state superintendent of schools as prepared by the school board at its last meeting was read to the city council Friday evening at its regular monthly meeting.

Question No. 2.—If the Junior High school plan be advisable should the new building be a Senior or a Junior school?

No. 3.—Should the new building be located on the Island part of the city or mainland?

No. 4.—Would it be feasible to have two Junior high schools, one on the Island and the other on the mainland?

No. 5.—How far would the students of Junior high school be reasonably expected to walk to school?

No. 6.—How far may students of the Senior high school be expected to walk?

No. 7.—Is the plan for erecting of the new school building in two units—academic portion and a separate unit for vocational and gymnasium, advisable? The plan proposed is to use the Kimberly high school for a Junior high school and for the construction of a new elementary school in the Fourth ward.

No. 8.—If above plan is sound, how large should the proposed building be for the Fourth ward?

No. 9.—Are school cafeterias in Junior and Senior high schools advisable where there is no room for pupils to be compelled to eat at these places?

Neenah schools are crowded to capacity, according to the communication, every grade and school being so filled that there is no chance of shifting. If conditions continue, the report stated, it will be necessary to run the schools on a part time plan.

Sept. 23 and 30 has been set for this survey which is to be given free of the only expense to the city will be for publishing the findings. The school board at its last meeting decided to recommend that this survey be made.

In connection with school matters before the meeting of the council, a request was made by the school board for the use of the Fourth ward building to relieve the overcrowded conditions now existing in the old school building. The request was granted.

The total enrollment in the Neenah schools shows a gain of from 1159 pupils in 1920 to 1338 in 1925.

Outside of the school matters there was little business transacted in the Friday night session. The removal of the grass plots in the center of Nicollet-bldg at the intersections of First, Second and Third-sts and the boulevard in order to give better parking and passing space was brought up by Aldermen Herziger. As both Neenah and Menasha are interested in Nicollet-bldg, it being the dividing line between the two, this is a matter to be taken up between the two cities and it was so referred.

Wyke Rutherford, who was recently arrested by officer Sorenson on a charge of "disorderly conduct" for parking two wheels of his automobile on the grass along the driveway of Riverside park, and who paid a fine and costs amounting to $9, appeared before the meeting asking that the fine be refunded as there was no ordinance regulating such parking, and claiming that the officers knew this when he was arrested and paid his fine. The matter was referred to the city attorney.

The purchase of a new ambulance was brought up and created a heated discussion inasmuch as the present ambulance is privately owned and controlled by Theda Clark hospital. The city has been paying for repairs. The matter was referred to a committee to consult with the hospital board. The bad condition of the intersection of Third-ave and S. Commercial-st was discussed with a view of recommending some relief to property owners who suffer because Commercial-st is higher than Third-ave as it crosses the C. & N. W. railway tracks. Lowering of the tracks, or raising them and building the street beneath was recommended. This was referred to the attorney to investigate.

Bills amounting to $5,153.44 were reported by the finance committee for payment; a request from a resident for the purchase of a part of Green-st, was referred to the attorney; an application to sell nonintoxicating liquors in the L-kende hotel, presented by Mrs. Helzer Skafte, was referred to the committee on police and health; a petition for a water main on Harrison-st.

Shattuck Tells Boys They Should Hear Boy Leader During Campaign Here

Frank H. Gamel, boyology expert, who will visit this city for a series of lectures during the next few weeks is one of the most helpful citizens to the youth and fathers of this country and people of Appleton cannot afford to miss a single one of his lectures, according to S. F. Shattuck, well-known Neenah boys' worker, who spoke at an assembly of boys of Appleton high school Friday morning as a preliminary to Gamel's campaign, which opens Sunday evening. Mr. Shattuck also spoke at the Roosevelt school and other speakers had charge of the other junior high schools of the city and the vocational school.

Mr. Shattuck told of the work Mr. Gamel had done in Neenah recently and how successful his campaign has been there. He said that the boyology expert had completely sold his ideas to the boys and fathers of Neenah. He is capable of helping a boy meet any problem which may confront him, Mr. Shattuck said. Boys and fathers should take advantage of his short visit, he declared.

After the talk Mr. Shattuck distributed advertising material for the

THOUSANDS OF ANCIENT DODGE AUTOS IN USE

Long Life of Baked Enamel and Leather Upholstery Shown by Dealers

Dependability and long life, according to Wolter Implement Co., local Dealer, are largely responsible for the "World Wide Good Will" enjoyed by Dodge Brothers, Inc. These characteristics are but the natural results of selection of the highest grade materials, of precision in workmanship and of soundness of design.

"The files at the factory," says Mr. R. K. Wolter, "contain hundreds of letters written voluntarily by enthusiastic owners of Dodge Brothers Motor Cars which were among the first shipped into different parts of the country and which are still in active service. A large percentage of these have traveled well upward of 200,000 miles." Car No. 12, the first Dodge

"As typical examples of these 'Old Timers' Car No. 12, first Dodge Brothers car delivered on the Pacific Coast, is reported still in service after over 170,000 miles on all kinds of mountain roads. Car No. 13, the first received in Denver, Colorado, arriving there December 10th, 1914, was first used as a demonstrator. It is still giving satisfactory service to its original purchaser.

"The first Dodge Brothers car sold in the State of Arizona was recently received by the dealer at Phoenix and located in the service of a farmer in the Yuma Valley. It now occupies a conspicuous place in that dealer's display room.

"Touring Car No. 152, the first sold in Portland, Maine, is far from the scrap pile. The original owner, Mr. Jordan, after using it for a number of years as a passenger car, converted it into a 3/4 ton truck to convey garden produce to the Portland markets. The satisfactory service rendered by this ten year old car led Mr. Jordan, when later in need of an additional truck of greater capacity, to buy a Graham Brothers Truck, which is powered by Dodge Brothers engine.

"Car No. 136, the veteran of Pittsburgh, was traced by the dealer through several changes of ownership to a farm where it was in daily service over rough country roads. In spite of the high valuation placed by the owner, 'Old 136' now occupies a space in the Pittsburgh salesroom.

"From the dealer at Glens Falls, New York, comes the report that he has just purchased for display and demonstrating purposes one of the first Dodge Brothers cars delivered in his territory. It has given 150,000 miles of satisfactory service.

"The dealer in Buffalo, New York, J. A. Cramer, recently, as evidence of dependability, compiled a list of names of 70 Buffalo citizens who purchased Dodge Brothers cars over ten years ago and whose cars are still giving fine service.

"In Binghamton, New York, the dealer recently ran an advertisement in the local newspaper inviting the owners of the Dodge Brothers cars sold in Binghamton during 1914 and 1915 to register their cars, if still in service, at his showroom. Of 99 cars sold during those years, 52 were registered. Most of the other owners had moved from the city.

"Of great interest is the fact that out of these 52 cars 43 had their original baked enamel finish, a large percentage showing almost the original lustre. The leather upholstery was invariably good.

11TH CENTURY COFFINS FOUND UNDER CHURCH

Leicester, Eng.—(AP)—During restoration work on Switland church, Leicestershire, which dates back to Saxon times, three of the eleventh century windows were uncovered. Under the floor were found two coffins of children of the Danvers Butler family, ancestors of the present Earl of Lanesborough, whose county seat is at Switland hall.

An interesting connection with Switland also is the tombstone of Sir Joseph Danvers who died nearly 200 years ago. It is said to be the only instance in England where half the grave is in a churchyard and half in unconsecrated ground. Sir Joseph had instructed his son to bury him in this fashion, so that when the last trumpet was sounded he should be able to arise on the Judgement day upon his own land.

FILIPINO GIRLS SLOW TO BOB THEIR HAIR

Manila.—(AP)—While Filipino girls in small numbers have for some time shown a tendency to adopt European dress, it is only recently that they have ventured into the field of bobbed hair. Only a few so far have yielded to the temptation to clip their long black locks, but many predictions are made that the custom will grow because of the comfort afforded by short hair in this tropical climate.

Parental objection is strong against the innovation, as the Filipino woman takes the greatest pride in her long thick hair which in many cases reaches to her ankles.

Many New Ideas in Better Buicks

Standard Six, five passenger two-door sedan

Greater Power, More Protection to Working Parts Included; Prices Lower

Buick again demonstrated the marvelous resources and abilities of the automotive industry when it introduced the present Better Buick. Embraced in this latest Buick offering are additional power and strength, the newest engineering and achievements designed to give even longer motor car life, the maximum in comfort and safety, besides new beauty and refinements of design and finish representing the latest skill in body craftsmanship. And in face of these material and costly improvements lower prices are announced throughout the entire line of Standard and Master Sixes.

The announcement and the showing of the better Buicks silenced the rumors that Buick would abandon the valve-in-head for another type engine which would permit of cheaper construction. The same principles that were inaugurated by Buick 21 years ago and which have made it the leader in the industry have been adhered to throughout.

The mechanical improvements introduced would have been considered impossibilities only a year ago. They represent the work of Buick research and engineering staffs constantly striving for betterments.

The new prices likewise represent achievements of the engineering, production and business departments of the Buick organization and are in no small measure due to the phenomenal approval of Buicks by the public. This latter factor has resulted in continuously increasing sales with the attendant possibilities of economies in purchasing and production.

The complete line includes 16 models, six in the Standard Six and ten in the Master Six class. In all cases the distinctive Buick lines have been continued, with refinements such as the rounding of radiator lines and the addition of streamline moldings. All are finished in new and beautiful tones of durable Duco. Some of the models have Duo-tone Duco finish in distinctive combinations. All bodies are by Fisher and are upholstered in quality plush.

Buicks have always been noted for their sealed chassis, which prevents dirt or water entering any of the moving parts. Now it has added an air cleaner, oil filter and gasoline strainer. These, combined with the standard Buick construction, practically eliminate the possibility of any foreign substance entering the engine or moving parts of the chassis and consequently minimize service requirements and add to the life of the car.

Because these three new units have no moving parts, there is nothing to get out of adjustment. They require no power—in fact are thoroughly automatic and require only occasional cleaning to remove the dirt and grime gathered from the air, fuel and oil.

The above illustration shows the Standard Six five-passenger, two-door sedan. The price of this model, $1,195, is representative of the increased values included in the entire line of Better Buicks.

CHRYSLER AUTO DEALER NOT AN INSURANCE MAN

Alabama Assistant Attorney General Gives Ruling on Car Insurance

In an opinion rendered by Assistant Attorney General J. Fred Johnson, Jr., of Alabama, and delivered to the State Superintendent of Insurance, Frank N. Julian, Chrysler dealers and distributors in selling Chrysler cars insured against loss, fire and theft for one year, are not under the law insurance agents.

The first question that presents itself in making a study of the Chrysler plan of lowered finance charges and reduced insurance rates on Chrysler cars sold on the deferred payment basis, says Mr. Johnson, is "whether this certificate of insurance is a domestic or foreign contract, that it is whether it is an Alabama or a Michigan contract. In my opinion it is so obvious as to require no further arguments, discussion, nor citation of authority, that it is a foreign contract made in Michigan between parties in Michigan, and subject to the lex loci contractus, which in this case is the law of the State of Michigan.

"In the second place," continues Mr. Johnson, "is the Chrysler dealer to be deemed an insurance agent by reason of his negotiating a sale of a car, which has been made subject of this insurance, and hence is he required to obtain an insurance license?"

"Chrysler dealers have absolutely nothing to do with the contract between the Chrysler Corporation and Palmetto Fire Insurance Company. They solicit no insurance," continues Mr. Johnson, "have no connection or correspondence with the Palmetto company, did not put the insurance on the car and cannot take it off. They do not receive or transmit the certificate of insurance, nor do they collect or remit any premiums, nor do they do any act or thing in the making or consummating of the contract of insurance.

"In my opinion there is no reasonable interpretation of the law whereby they may be deemed to be insurance agents on the above stated facts, and hence they may not be required to procure licenses as such."

MOON COMPANY ADDS ROADSTER TO 1925 LINE

Many Improvements in Comfort and Appearance Embodied in New Automobile

A new Moon Roadster for 1925 having an "arrow-head" panel effect on the hood and cowl and including in its equipment a number of improvements over the 1924 Moon Roadster is announced by the Moon Motor Car Company and though the new car retains its basic features as do all Moon cars for 1925, many new improvements that add to the comfort of the motorist and to the appearance of the car are included in this new creation of Moon engineers.

H. C. Wendt body engineer of the Moon Motor Car Company who has achieved a marked success in the designing of Moon bodies and who recently delivered an address before the National Automobile Body Builders' convention at Detroit, when asked about the new Moon "arrow-head" Roadster said "The changes in the new job over the previous roadster consist in reality of the refinements car to add to its roominess and comfort and to its appearance.

The shape of the radiator shell has been improved by deepening the radiator so that both the shell and the radiator have a much better appearance while the fenders have a deeper crown and an increase of one inch in width, the substitution of mouldings also having added to the appearance of the fenders. The front fenders are longer and have a more graceful sweep which gives them a distinctive European effect while the running boards are much shorter and wider necessitated by the change in the fenders. All the chassis sheet metal in the new Moon Roadster for 1925 has been redesigned and a gas tank cover has been added which conceals the gasoline tank and the rear frame horns thus giving a much neater appearance to the rear of the car.

The equipment of the Moon Roadster for 1925, which sells for $1,395.00 at St. Louis, includes Moon Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes, heavy park cam and lever type steering gear, one-piece ventilating windshield, and a light control lever on the steering column head making night driving less dangerous. The bodies of the Moon roadster for 1925 are done in both "DUOCO" two-tone tan and in "DUOCO" two tone gray, color being optional. In addition to the cowl ventilator on top there are ventilators on each side of the cowl thus adding more comfort to driving.

REQUIRED FEWER TIRES IN 1925

Improved Methods of Road Construction Reduces Number of Replacements

Akron, Ohio.—Improved methods of construction, which cut the average consumption of auto tires per car almost in half from 1917 to 1924, are expected to reduce the average number of tire replacements per car still further in 1925.

In 1917 the average number of tires used as replacements on each car was 4.52, while in 1924 this figure was cut to only 2.74 tires. This record has been made despite the fact that the average auto in 1924 was used more than the average car in 1917.

However the production of auto tires keeps on the increase, although they last longer, because of the rapid increase in the number of automobiles in the country.

Practically every year has seen a new milestone in the path of tire construction progress, according to Miller engineers, and remarkable improvements have nearly doubled the service in them in seven years.

Adoption of the cord principle of construction added miles to tire service. Then followed the development of the balloon type of tire which resulted in not only long service but also a degree of comfort not dreamed previously.

Following this was the birth of the

FARM AFFAIRS SHARPEN COUNTRY PERSONS' WITS

Gloucester, England.—(AP)—Contrary to general belief, persons living in the country have the greatest amount of brains as compared with city workers, according to E. F. L. Wood, British minister of agriculture. "I want to combat a delusion of the city and town folks," said Mr. Wood speaking in Gloucester recently, "that the country child, man or woman is less clever and intelligent than his brothers and sisters in the congested districts. The truth is that agriculture and the things associated with it demand a greater measure of intelligence, enterprise and grip than the work done by the thousands of townsmen."

flat tread type, which has added thousands of miles of service because the flat tread presented more surface to the road, thus giving better traction while making the tire last longer because the flat tread wears evenly and slowly.

Tests of this type of tire on all kinds of roads and in all seasons have demonstrated that it ranks among the outstanding developments in the construction. The unflinching principle of construction, in which each part of the tire flanges in union, has prolonged tire life by reducing internal heat and the destructive processes that internal heat indicates.

Very few industries, it is claimed, have shown a greater advance in such a short time than in the rubber tire industry.

INSPECT YOUR BATTERIES NOW

This Is the Time of Year When Trouble Is Frequent, Says Schroeder

"At this time of the year battery troubles are quite frequent," says Mr. Schroeder of the Willard Service Station. Long trips and hot weather tend to weaken the wood insulation and buckle the plates which is the cause of many batteries, shorting. In addition to this we find sealing compound leaks which cause a lack of acid in many batteries and badly acid soaked wood boxes which soon go to pieces.

An inspection of your batteries condition at this time of the year is good insurance against trouble later on as a good peppy battery is sure to be

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

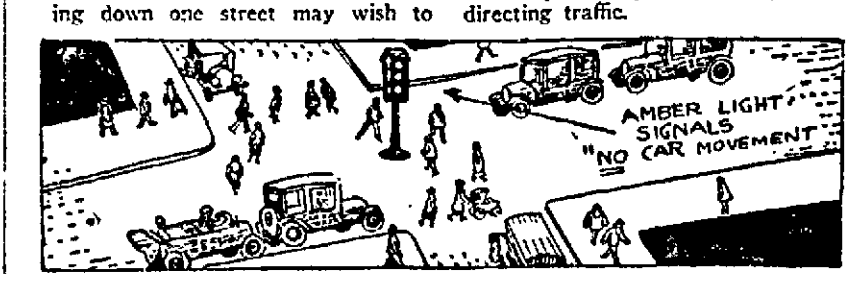

REDUCE CROSSING INTERFERENCE

THE Rapid Transit Commission of the City of Detroit declares that the most effective way of increasing the capacity of a traffic lane is to reduce the crossing interference. "This can be done by separating the grades, but it is a costly procedure and should only be resorted to when other means are exhausted," says the Commission.

"Moreover, streets must be at least 120 feet in width to permit grade separation for thorough traffic without damaging the abutting property or interfering with local traffic," continues the report.

Another way of materially reducing the crossing interferences is to limit the crossing movements to designated cross streets located a number of blocks apart instead of every block.

Boston has a trying traffic problem at the corner of Boylston and Tremont streets because traffic coming down one street may wish to

The FLAPPER WIFE

"Oh, he cared, all right enough," Lola answered, "but you never can tell what those queer men are thinking about. They bottle everything up inside themselves . . . until they do something like this!"

Out in the cheerful, sunny street again, Gloria thought over what Lola had said about Dr. John.

Dick was the quiet kind of man, too! The kind of man who bottled up everything within himself! . . . Gloria wondered if he had brooded about her, as Dr. John must have brooded over May for long months. The thought almost took her breath away.

She would go to Dick now, and beg him to let bygones be bygones! She would make him love her again, as he had loved her in the early days of their life together . . . the days when he trembled if he touched her. He would be under her spell once. He would be under it again.

But the sight of Miss Briggs sitting at her desk in Dick's office shook Gloria's confidence in herself. A little Miss Briggs was actually pretty today! Her cheeks were flushed, and her eyes were filled with sparkle.

"Well," Gloria said, "You don't look as if you'd worked half the night!"

"I didn't," Miss Briggs answered demurely. "Mr. Gregory sent me home at ten in a cab. He's very considerate."

Hmm! Like Joe he was considerate, thought Gloria. He could send his secretary home in a cab but his wife could walk, for all he cared! . . . But, perhaps he thought that she had driven downtown in her little car, last night. He probably did think that.

Gloria opened the door of Dick's private office and looked in. It was empty.

"Where is Mr. Gregory?" she asked, turning to Miss Briggs.

"Mr. Gregory's gone out to lunch," Miss Briggs told Gloria. "But he ought to be back soon. If you'd like to, you can sit down and wait for him. You won't disturb me at all."

She went on with her typewriting. Gloria glared down at her smooth head, bent over the machine.

She guessed she had a perfect right to sit in her own husband's office without waiting for Miss Briggs' permission! And if she wanted to disturb Miss Briggs, she could do that, too. Watch her!

She took off her hat and tossed it down carelessly on Miss Briggs' desk. It bounced off onto the floor.

Gloria picked it up and handed it to Miss Briggs.

"Just brush that thing off," she said impudently.

Miss Briggs looked up at her in surprise. Then she flushed deeply. But without a word she wiped the dust from Gloria's hat with a handkerchief that she took from a drawer of her desk.

Then she hung it on the rack behind her.

"Look up our burglary insurance, while you're on your feet," Miss Briggs said.

From under her thick lashes, she watched Miss Briggs go to the file on the other side of the room, and look for the insurance papers.

"Here they are," Mrs. Gregory said quietly, as she handed them to Gloria.

And now call up the police and tell them we had a robbery at our house last night," Gloria directed her. "Tell them all our table silver was stolen. It was worth about $200 . . . in case they ask you."

Miss Briggs stood looking down at her for a moment.

"Wouldn't it be better if you talked to them yourself, Mrs. Gregory?" she asked in a low tone. "They're sure to ask a lot of questions that I won't know how to answer."

Gloria met her look, coldly. "Will you please do what I told you to?" she drawled.

Miss Briggs bit her lips. It was on the end of her tongue to tell Gloria that not she, but Dick, was her employer. But, because of Dick, she said nothing.

She picked up the phone and called the police. They asked a dozen questions, and at last Gloria took the instrument from her, and answered them.

"I'll send a man out right away to look things over," the deep, masculine voice at the other end of the wire told her. "There have been a lot of burglaries in that neighborhood lately."

As Gloria turned away from the telephone, it suddenly occurred to her that there was no one at the house to admit the man from police headquarters when he got there.

"Oh, well," she thought, carelessly, "what's the diff? He can come back later." She didn't want him going through her house, now, anyway. The bees were still unmade, although it was afternoon, and the dirty dishes from yesterday's lunch were still piled in the greasy sink.

For some reason or other, an old English poem that her mother used to tell when she was lazy, flashed into Gloria's brain. It told about a collier's sloppy wife, who loved to gossip and hated to work. One evening he was killed at the mine. And when they brought his body home "the slut ran up to make the bed," the poem said with brutal frankness. Oh, well, after she had seen Dick and fixed things up with him, she'd go home and straighten the house, Gloria promised herself. She would honestly try to be a better housewife from now on.

"Won't you have a lettuce sandwich?" Miss Briggs' low voice broke in upon her thoughts.

She had opened a package of sandwiches, and a thermos bottle stood on her desk. From it came a thin curl of steam and the fragrant smell of coffee.

"I always bring my lunch from home," Mrs. Gregory. "I find I can't afford to eat around at restaurants."

"Will you have some coffee with me?"

"No, thanks," Gloria answered coldly. She was very hungry but she couldn't very well eat salt with Miss Briggs when she hated her as she did.

And she did hate her! She hated Miss Briggs' lovely voice and the dainty way she ate . . . everything about her.

Gloria watched her slyly. There really was something attractive about her. Really was something attractive she wasn't pretty the way Gloria was!

ORANGE LOOKS GOOD AT END OF SECOND WEEK

Few Injuries Handicap Mac's Fighting Youths As 1st Scrimmage Starts

Kaukauna Game Set for Friday, Nov. 6; Electric City to Stage Big Celebration

Appleton high school grid warriors completed the second week of practice Saturday full of fight and working hard for a championship squaring up for the first time. With only one big injury and several minor bumps, the Orange crew is beginning to look like a football team and the fight instilled by Macauliffe stands out all over the youngsters. Abe Cohen, a backfield candidate, suffered the only serious injury of the two weeks. Thursday afternoon when he broke a small bone in his elbow on a line plunge. He will be out for the season and will have to carry his arm in a cast for some time.

SOME MINOR INJURIES
Several minor injuries to promising men is handicapping Mac somewhat but all should be in shape early next week. Red Vanderlinden, one of the most promising of the green linemen, bumped his wrist in hard scrimmage Friday afternoon, but should be back in the squad soon. Al Lietzen, a left man in the line, is out for a few days with an infected ear. Mac Kneip, a backfield candidate of promise, is recovering from a severe fall from a horse and Chuck Johnson, another leading backfield, is coming around after hurting a shoulder. Appleton is lucky so far compared to their first-game rival, La Crosse, for reports from the border city state that three men are through for some time. A sub lineman is laid up with a broken collar-bone and a sub halfback also is badly hurt. The most serious blow, however, comes in the loss of Sewsky, regular fullback, who will be out for three weeks.

START SCRIMMAGE WORK
Scrimmage is in full swing at the old Lawrence field and the boys are working hard. The line is opening holes well and the ends are going down well under punts though their tackling still is somewhat erratic. All of the backfield is working hard, with Capt. Ed Steenls, changed from tackle to fullback this year, showing more speed and better footwork than ever before. Johnston and Kitzinger also look good and the savage blocking by the backs is rapidly making them look like the real thing in backfield circles. Three men Kneip, Eddie Frieders and Bob Roemer look good at quarter and unless one shows a great development, Mac will have a job choosing his pilot this season. Kneip and Roemer, who is an Orange punter, also are good reserves. Roemer should go good on end runs with the blocking the backfield backs are showing.

HOLD SKULL PRACTICE
The signals were given out this week and Thursday evening saw the boys put in a real hour of skull practice at the school. A number of "clash" plays were given out by Mac and all went for the goal. If it worked right, Men showing well this week were, Johnston, Kneip, Steenls, Kitzinger, Roemer, Frieders, Witke and Strutz, backfielders, and Haag, Ashman, Pfefferle, Packard, Vanderlinden, Heipritz, Schultz, Vacko, Uebelacher, Lietzen in the line.

KAUKAUNA DATE CHANGED
Friday, Nov. 6, has practically been set as the date of the Kaukauna-Appleton game in this city as the result of a conference between school officials. Local authorities said that school would be closed Thursday and Friday as usual because of the state teacher's convention, so that it does not interfere with the regular schedule. Kaukauna, which is a whole lot better than Appleton, is preparing to make a gain out of the affair. Merchants will close their stores in the afternoon and a parade of horn-blowing, whistling, etc., will come to Appleton for the game. A band probably will accompany the team and altogether it will be a "whoop-it-up" celebration for the Electric city. One of the largest crowds ever in attendance at a Kaukauna-Appleton game is expected in the city, a crowd rivaling the Marquette "Hawkeyes" games. The Electric city crew is encouraged by its fine showing against the strong Orange crew last year and feelings run high that this is the big year, a year for an Appleton defeat.

BIG-TEN GRID TEAMS GET FIRST SCRIMMAGE

Chicago—(P)—The Tossin "first scrimmage" sounds Saturday on many midwestern practice gridirons as the finale of the first week of workouts. Drilled in fundamentals, aerial formations, blocking and tackling, eleven at Northwestern, Ohio State, Indiana and Wisconsin lineup to stimulate the comely reasons crucial combats under the critical eyes of coaches instead of cheering stands.

A temporary first team centering about Capt. Bob Brown, and Flora and Grubb, veterans of 1924, is Coach Yost's showing for week of effort at Michigan. Some of the selections on "I" show promise of permanency. Coach Ingwersen of the Hawks is postponing heavy workouts until he makes some guard selections. The heat is compelling Coach Peterson to hold twilight sessions at Purdue for rehearsal of running signals and various formations. Summer temperatures also interfere with the practice program of the Illinois, which is concentrating on signal drill and a sifting of backfield hopefuls.

BELOIT ENDS SEASON WITH BLUE GRIDDERS

Beloit—(P)—Five home games and three out-of-town games are on the football schedule of Beloit college for 1925, announced here Friday by T. E. Mills, athletic director. Practice began here the first of this week, and indications are that Beloit will put a strong team on the field this year, in the opinion of Coach Mills.

The schedule follows:
Sept. 25—Milton college at Beloit.
Oct. 3—Northwestern college at Watertown.
Oct. 10—Notre Dame at South Bend, Indiana.
Oct. 17—Kalamazoo college at Kalamazoo, Michigan.
Oct. 24—Knox college at Beloit (Homecoming).
Oct. 31—Coe college at Beloit.
Nov. 7—Ripon college at Beloit.
Nov. 14—Lawrence college at Appleton.

PIRATES, BUCKS CONTINUE MARCH

Remainder of Major Loop Clubs Closely Bunched in Final Stages of Race

New York—(P)—Most major league clubs were closely bunched Saturday with the Pirates and Senators continuing their triumphant march towards the buntings.

Four Boston pitchers fell under a barrage of 13 hits from the Buccaneers who registered a 9-7 victory. However, Pittsburgh's lead remained at seven games as the Giants topped the Cubs, 8-3.

The Cardinals strengthened their grip on the fourth rung by turning out a 9-5 win over Brooklyn. The Cards are one game in front of Brooklyn.

Philadelphia trounced the Reds, 5 to 1, Villoughby beating Dohmke in a pitching duel.

MAKS TAKE TWO

The World Champions easily disposed of the White Sox 10-5, but a double victory for the Athletics over the Tigers, 4-2 and 7-3, enabled the Mackmen to gain half a game. The Senators now lead by seven games. Detroit holds fourth place against Chicago by one game.

Cleveland made sixth place more secure against the Yankees by coming out on the long end of a 6-5 score in Boston. The Indians have a two game margin on the Huguenots. Bob Meusel's 29th homer of the year and Babe Ruth's 20th four-bagger helped the New York defeat the Browns 4-2. McManus of St. Louis, broke the Yankees' pitchers' record of 42 consecutive earned runs in innings by slamming his 13th circuit drive of year in the sixth.

RINKEYDINKS WANT GAME FOR 9-13 TITLE

With Clarence Bauerfield, star hurler of the Rinkeydink ball club, breezing along in fine form, the Rinkeydinks took the deciding game with the Sacred Heart school squad at the Rinkeydink diamond in the Fourth ward by a 8-6 score. The Rinkeydink crew now has defeated the Sacred Heart schoolers two out of three games this season. They challenged any team in the city composed of boys between the ages of 9-13 to a game for the city title for that age teams. Managers should call Clarence Bauerfield at 2875.

BIG AND LITTLE BILL AGAIN IN NET FINALS

Forest Hills, N. Y.—(P)—"Big Bill" Tilden and "Little Bill" Johnston are the finalists in the annual tournament in the National Tennis tilt as usual. Victories in preliminary rounds in different halves of the draw enabled them to be in the title round Saturday for the sixth time in seven years. Tilden, victor five straight times against his Californian rival, entered the deciding match a favorite to make it six straight.

Both rivals Friday in the semi-finals eliminated their Davis cup team mates. Johnston ended the comeback of Richard Norris Williams, while Tilden vanquished his young rival, Vincent Richards.

Ottawa, Ont.—The last American hope was eliminated from the Canadian women's open golf championship tourney. Oyster Bay, N. Y. The American six meter yachts won the third race of the International Championship series with the Scandinavian Yacht Racing Union.

WALTER HAGEN IS WINNER OF MANY BIG GOLF TITLES

Only Native Born American Golfer to Cop Famous British Open Championship

While most the champion golfers of America who have won great international titles or many national honors are foreign born, Walter Hagen, who, paired with Billy Sixty of Milwaukee, meets the local all-star pair of Ken Dickinson and Frank Walsh in an exhibition match on the Butte Des Morts course Sunday afternoon, can be called "America's own golf champ." Unlike Jim Barnes and other Hagen was born and raised in this country and he is the only native-born American to win the British Open championship. He accomplished the feat twice. Other Americans winning the coveted title were foreign born.

COPPED MANY TOURNEYS
Hagen has won every tournament of note in the United States, including the Western Open title, the Northern Open, the Southern Open, Florida Open and many open state championships. He has won the Western Open several times and is noted for his ability to play through 15 holes without getting off the fairways. He is the highest paid professional in the world, getting $25,000 a year. He has a three year contract with the A. G. Spalding Co., whereby he receives $15,000 to use only golf balls made by that company. He writes for a number of magazines and newspapers besides receiving royalties from club makers who use his name. He is owner of two golf courses in Florida and has played in Wisconsin only once before and that was at Milwaukee several years ago.

Club officials announce that children under 18 years of age will be admitted to the Sunday match for 50 cents. The regular admission price is $1.

LOOP LEADERS DRAW CLOSE TO FLAG BERTHS

Chicago—(P)—Six more victories for the Pittsburgh Pirates will make them the new champions of the National league, even though the New York Giants, who are trailing in second place, win all their remaining thirteen games. The Pirates have eleven more contests to play and hold a seven game margin over their rivals.

GOLF As Champions Play It

EVERY CLUB IS THE MOST IMPORTANT

AT THE RIGHT PLACE

Joyce and Roger Wethered say that the midiron is the most important club. Why do you agree or disagree?

BY BOBBY CRUICKSHANK
One of America's Greatest Players

The midiron is a very important club indeed, but I don't think it can be singled out as the most important club to play. However, much has been written about different clubs being the most important, the answer seems to differ in this respect. Personally, I think that every club, from the putter to the driver, is the most important at the precise time it is being played. There are, however, occasions on different courses where the long iron game is the most important feature. Inwood is such a course. It calls for a majority of long iron shots. But there are a great many courses that call for the short and extremely accurate game. And what of the great courses like Pine Valley, Mayo and all the British championship courses that call for extremely accurate driving and wooden club placing before the second or next shot to the hole is opened up?

That is the reason I prefer not to list one club above the others in importance.

GUIDE ARMY GRID SQUAD

These two leaders hope to turn out a winning football team at West Point this fall. They are shown talking things over during a stiff workout of the squad. The Army has a tough schedule and will need a strong aggregation to come out on top.

PACKERS ALL SET FOR LOOP OPENER

Crack Hammond All-stars Mix With Big Bay Blues to Start National Season

Green Bay—The opening game of the National Football league schedule will be played Sunday afternoon at the City stadium in Joannes park between the Green Bay Packers and Hammond All Stars. The kick off is slated promptly at 2:15 and regulation quarters of 15 minutes duration have been arranged for.

Hammond is going to the 'Bay' with an aggregation of all stars, headed by such well-known professional footballers as "Fritz" Pollard, "Ink" Williams, Falcon, Robinson, Neal and Lefty Hess. Doc Young, the Hammond manager, has moulded together his best team in years and nothing would please him better than to upset the Big Bay lads in the first league fray.

GOOD WEEK OF PRACTICE

The Packers have put in a good week of practice since they put the skids under Iron Mountain last Sunday to the tune of 48 to 6. With the exception of Buck, Harris and Larson the squad is fit for the fray and the players are determined to get off on the right foot in the chase for the Pro league pennant.

Iverson, city athletic director at Sheboygan, has been named to referee the game as it was impossible for George Downer of Milwaukee to come here on Sunday. White, of Ripon and Wiley, of Indiana are the other two officials.

EXPECT BIG CROWD

Arrangements have been completed to handle another big crowd, which is forecast by the heavy advance ticket sale. Hundreds of out-of-town football fans are expected here for the gridiron combat. The ticket office at the park will be ready for business at 10:30 Sunday morning while the gates at the stadium are to be opened at 12:45.

The American Legion band, one of Green Bay's crack musical units, will parade down town before the game and then proceed to the park where their snappy offerings will go a long way towards putting a lot of pep in to the players and spectators alike.

PROBABLE LINE UP

The probable line up of the teams is as follows:

Left End	Hammond
O'Donnell Wilkins	Williams
Jean, Buck	Neal
Woodlin, Abramson	Fortune
	Center
Larson	Rydswick
Gardner	Carman
Earpe	McGinnis
Vegara	Stallman, Oltz
Mathys	Quarterback
	Sifrott
Lewellen, Norton	Kendrick, Annan
	Right Half Back
Lambeau	Pollard, Robinson
	Full Back
Falsing, Harris	Falcon
Reefers—Iverson, Sheboygan, Um-pire, White, Ripon; Head Linesman, Wiley, Indiana. Time of periods, 15 minutes. Kick off, 2:15.

MAX BISHOP HAD BUSY DAY AT 2ND

Max Bishop of the Athletics enjoyed a great day afield recently, getting six putouts and five assists during a game with the Yankees. He had 12 chances all told, making one error. He was pivot man on the only double play his team turned that day.

ST. PAUL FANS READY TO BACK RED BLANCHARD

Friends of Star Lightie Express Confidence in His Ability in Cold Cash

Confidence in the ability of Reddy Blanchard, junior lightweight champion of Michigan, to whip Harry Kahn decisively in the final ten-round bout of the big double windup card of the Appleton Athletic club in Armory G Thursday night is expressed by a telegram received by club officials from a group of five St. Paul business men on Friday. Reddy formerly resided in St. Paul where he was a sparring partner of Mike Gibbons the Fighting Phantom. Mike has often stated that Reddy is a coming lightweight champ and that he should give Kahn a whipping.

PUT UP MONEY
The five St. Paul men wired that they will be here Thursday night for the bout and asked the local men to wire them at their expense of any money "on the boards" for Kahn to beat Blanchard. They state that they have up to $500 in cash ready to cover any Kahn money put up from Friday until Thursday afternoon. If they are unable to secure bets by Thursday they will attempt to put up their money when they arrive here. With dozens of Milwaukee fans expected to back Harry and see the Joey Clein-Walter Grayjeck feud battle, the St. Paul men probably will have little trouble getting "takers" for their money at that time. Harry is a popular idol in the Cream City and is a claimant of the state lightweight belt, so that he will have plenty of "cash" backers.

TICKETS GO FAST
Fastboards for the battle are going fast and reports from the selling places indicate that not many will be left by Monday night. Practically all of the best seats in the house already have been purchased, according to reports.

ORANGE NETMEN TO FORM SQUAD

Local High School Makes Effort to Start Interscholastic Tennis in Valley

Tennis, one of the most neglected sports in schools of the Fox river valley, will receive much more attention at Appleton high school this year than ever before if plans of the prep net players are successful. The Orange netters will get off to an early start this fall and will continue the work in the spring. At that time the boys may even try to put the sport on a competitive basis in the city. Oshkosh, Neenah and Fondy highs have played the net game for some time and a number of valley conference matches may be scheduled with these teams next spring.

An effort to form a valley high school tennis conference as a part of the Fox River Valley High School Athletic Conference and including the same eight schools which meet at present in major athletics and forensics work also is on the cards. Boys who have signed up in the last two days to try out for the Orange interscholastic net squad include, Harold and Robert Eads, John Catlin, William and Andrews Montgomery, Claire Miller, Clem Gerharz, James Hobbs and Jack Powell. With these nine boys as a nucleus and others expected to join the group in the next week, the net game should get off to a big start in the Orange school this year. A green local team lost hard matches to Neenah and Oshkosh high school teams last spring.

Appleton-Fondy Game To Be Booster Battle For Fondy Legion Drum Corps

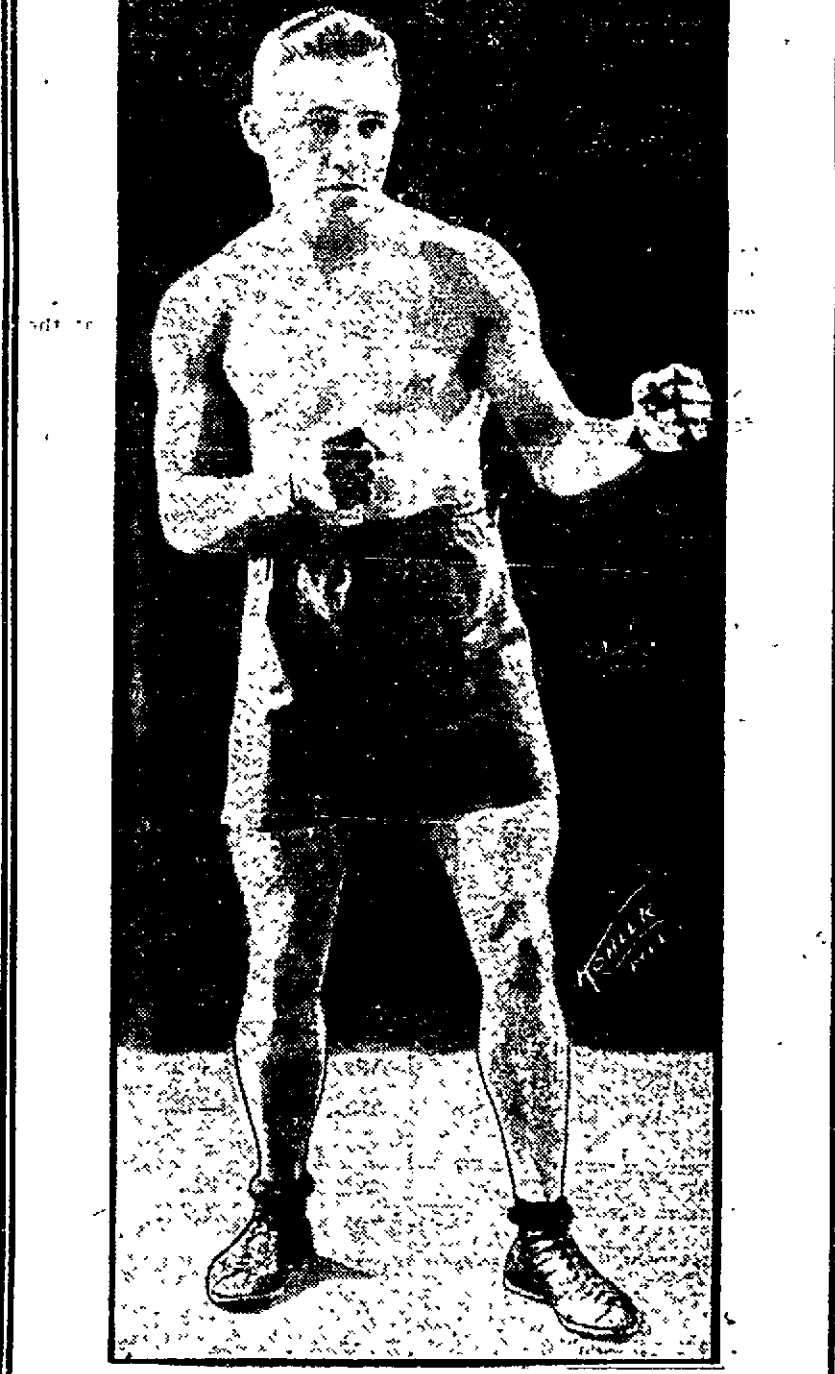

"Pokey" Pocan, Louie Schramm, Star Boxmen of Loop, Mix in Important Finale

When Appleton's ball club of the Eastern Wisconsin loop invades Fondy Sunday in an attempt to keep the Sanders crew out of the league leadership and to keep out of a third place tie with Chilton, should that crew beat Oshkosh, local fans who accompany the team for the season's finale will take part in a booster celebration before, after, and during the tilt. The game is to be a booster affair for the benefit of the American Legion drum corps and all corps members have been selling tickets all week. They will get a big slice out of the gross receipts. The team players and manager have agreed to sacrifice the big profit of the final game so that the corps can go to the big Legion convention in Omaha in three weeks. All tickets will be 50 cents and it will be a case of first come, first serve for the best seats.

CORPS WILL DRILL
As an added attraction at the game the drum corps will go through some of the drills and marching formations that they will use in the parade at Omaha. This stunt will take about ten minutes and will be done immediately before the umpire orders the teams to play ball. The Legionnaires will be in uniform for the drill and will probably parade to the ball park and draw the crowd there before the game starts.

POCAN VS SCHRAMM
Manager Baetz has not made the Parmenaker mound selection as yet with the three good hurlers on his staff, but Pocan probably will get the call as he has something to make up with the Fondy crew. The Sandersmen "stole his shirt" a few weeks ago to beat Appleton in the final stanza of an overtime game here when Bohlman pilfered home with two down and Pokey is after revenge. Louis Schramm, star speed ball artist of the loop, who whiffed 19 Appletonians to set a loop record in the last game, probably will hurl the crucial game for Fondy. Fondy claims that with Louis in the box they can trim any team in the loop. Plymouth beat them the second game of the Sunday-Labor day bill two weeks ago, because Bohlman hurried on Sunday, with the result that the Fountain city crew has challenged the loop leaders to a post-season series of three games on Sundays so that Louie can pitch all three and show that he can win from Plymouth.

PROBABLE LINEUPS
Last, who did a creditable job at hurling, the final frames of the Campbellport game, will be back behind the log. The infield which holds the loop record for double plays will see Al Goshon on first, Son Tornow on second, Boots Lamers short, and Cully Schultz, third. Chris Klundt, Cave Radtke or Baetz and Crowe or H. Tornow, will fill the outfield jobs. Fondy's probable lineup is Sanders, 3b; Steen, cf; L. Faris, rf; Senecal, lf; Robinson, 1b; Jensen or Brown, c; Lou or Augner 2b; J. Faris, ss; Schramm, p.
